Jimenez Flees As Military Junta Rules In Venezuela

SEIZED IN RAID—Nicholas Serian, Buena, N. J., was among several of men taken in custody at Camden, N. J., early today when police and narcotics agents raided a motel. Narcotics, which police said would bring over two million dollars on the illegal market, were seized in the raid.

Engineers' Union Probe Nearing End

Alleged Forgery,
Fraud, Phony Vote
Practices Explored

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Rackets Committee sought to wind up today its hearings on alleged fraud, forgery and phony election practices in the big San Francisco Operating Engineers Union.

Chairman McClellan (D-Ark.) planned to switch then to affairs of the union's Local 138 on Long Island, N.Y., in which the National Labor Relations Board says it has found "insinuations of corruption and maladministration."

Local 138 is headed by William C. DeKoning Jr., who took over the presidency from his father when the elder DeKoning was convicted of extortion in 1954 and sent to prison.

Yesterday's hearings brought testimony that "false entries" in the books of the 22,000-member Local 3 in San Francisco, doctored minutes of executive board meetings, and other devices had clouded the handling of thousands of dollars of the union's funds.

Testimony centered around activities of Victor S. Swanson, who was fired last year as business manager and boss of the local, and as an international vice president.

E. L. Garrett, the union's bookkeeper, testified that "false entries" had been made in his ledger under orders from Swanson.

Treasurer Porter E. Vandewark said he knew of financial irregularities, including the disappearance of $2,477 which he said he gave Swanson to reimburse the union for a car bought in 1956 for Swanson's son Wallace. He said the money did not reach the union, but he did not report this to the company which has bonded the union to protect it against loss through dishonesty of its officials.

Both men swore they received no profit from any such manipulations.

Knowland's series of amendments would assure government protection for union members deprived of their right to vote in union elections.

They also provide for NLRB conducted elections on issues of recall, strike decisions and changes in union dues or rules. Limit tenure of labor agreements and set up federal registration of employee welfare plans, among other changes.

Officials Misuse Power
In a speech prepared for Senate delivery, he said congressional hearings have "forcefully demonstrated that the powers of a considerable number of union officials are being misused."

He added that he realized he would face the "hostility of certain union officials who do not want their vested positions of power disturbed." But, he said, he is "willing to assume this risk."

Bloody Riot Marks Fall Of Dictator

Guards Fire Into Jubilant Crowds;
To Free Prisoners

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP)—President Marcos Perez Jimenez fled from Venezuela today, but new bloodshed marred the wild public jubilation which followed the dictator's downfall.

Guardsmen opened fire on a crowd which moved on to headquarters to release political prisoners ordered freed by a military junta which took over the government. An undetermined number of persons were reported killed and others were wounded.

Restore Liberties
The junta rushed two tanks to the guard headquarters and appealed to the people to clear the area so the release of the prisoners could proceed.

Perez Jimenez took to his heels after a brief but bloody civilian uprising in which the military finally joined.

The junta at once began restoring some of the liberties the dictatorship of nearly 10 years had suppressed.

In addition to freedom for all political prisoners it ordered all officers who took part in the short-lived New Year's revolt restored to their ranks. Punishments against them were canceled.

Censorship was lifted.

Begins Exile
CIUDAD TRUJILLO, Dominican Republic (AP)—Gen. Marcos Perez Jimenez, deposed president of Venezuela, and his family arrived here today aboard a military plane.

Political exiles abroad made plans to return to their homeland. Celebrating thousands jammed the streets of Caracas. They cheered wildly, waved Venezuelan flags and honked horns. Flag-waving students, the most publicly vocal of the ousted dictator's opponents, congregated in front of the statue of Simon Bolivar, the South American liberator.

Appeals To Crowds
The government radio network appealed repeatedly for the crowds to return to work and clear the streets.

Jimenez Fall Affects Peron

CARACAS (AP)—Deposed Argentine dictator Juan D. Peron and his aides were reported today fleeing toward the Colombian border in search of new asylum after the downfall of the Marcos Perez Jimenez dictatorship.

Apparently Peron, his top aide, Maj. Pablo Vicente, and others left for Colombia before dawn, immediately upon learning that Perez Jimenez had been overthrown.

Informed sources said Peron was traveling by automobile. Peron had lived in Caracas for about a year. He came here from Panama, his first place of exile after his Argentine government was overthrown in September 1955.

High School-College Combined Sputnik-Age Educational Plan Tried
GLENDALE, Calif. (AP)—New Sputnik-age programs designed to advance gifted students as fast as possible are being tried here—including one combining high school and college at the same time.

Twenty-five exceptional high school seniors will be assigned in the new semester beginning Feb. 3, to a college freshman course at Glendale College in a major academic subject for their first period. The subject will be mathematics, science, English, history or psychology.

Then the standout seniors, already selected for the pilot program, will return to Glendale and Hoover high schools for full day's work at senior high level.

John Stennis (D-Miss.) before testifying before the Senate Preparedness Subcommittee in Washington today. Clay said military forces should be reorganized with all major commanders wearing the same uniform and directed by a single chief. Clay is retired. (AP Photofax)

Tots Dropped From Windows: Blast, Fire Wreck Apartment House; Eight Feared Lost

CHICAGO (AP)—A fire and explosion spread havoc through a crowded South Side apartment building early today. In the frenzy to escape, many children were dropped from windows of the four-story building.

One infant was dead and at least six other children unaccounted for. One man also was missing. At least 21 were injured. Nine were children.

"The babies were falling like rain drops," said Jack McMillan, 31, Negro, who rushed to the scene where he said he caught five children dropped from windows. He fractured a thumb while catching one child.

150 In Building
Fire officials said there were 150 occupants in the building's 27 apartments.

Cause of the blast was not determined immediately but authorities said there apparently was no connection between the explosion and accidental sale of a gasoline-mixture as fuel oil. (Story on Page 2).

Tenants in the apartment building reported they were awakened by a heavy thump and that almost at the same moment the building was aflame.

Jump Into Nets
Some tenants jumped into fire nets. Others were rescued by firemen who brought them down ladders. Two or three men clinging to a third-floor ledge fell when the ledge gave way.

There were numerous stories of heroism. One tenant, L. D. Dixon, 30, dropped to the ground from the third floor, then caught his wife, Alberta, 27, and their 7-year-old son.

His six children one after another into arms of spectators, and then dropped nine other children from a window.

Italian Fashions Hike Hem Lines

FLORENCE, Italy (AP)—Rome's husband and wife fashion rivals, Fabiani and Simonetta, won the approval of a critical audience with some variations on the Paris-dictated skirt line.

They showed their spring and summer collections at the Florence fashion openings last night. Both hiked the hem to barely cover the knees.

South American Dictators Have Had Tough Road

By The Associated Press
Six dictators have been deposed or assassinated in Latin America in less than four years. This is the list:

June 30, 1954 — Pro-Communist Jacobo Arbenz Guzman, overthrown after a 12-day civil war in Guatemala.

Sept. 19, 1955 — Juan D. Peron, ousted as president of Argentina.

Sept. 29, 1955 — Gen. Anastasio Somoza of Nicaragua assassinated. His son is president.

Dec. 12, 1956 — President Paul E. Magloire of Haiti went into exile after an unsuccessful effort to perpetuate his rule.

May 10, 1957 — Gustavo Rojas Pinilla forced out of office by revolt in Colombia.

Jan. 23, 1958 — Marcos Perez Jimenez gave up and fled after resisting revolt in Venezuela.

Collision Kills Two Jet Pilots

ARLINGTON, Mass. (INS)—Two jet planes traveling at better than 500 miles an hour collided today over nearby Boston Harbor.

Two fliers were carried to their deaths in the flaming wreckage of one of the aircraft, which crashed and exploded in the yard of John A. McNeil, in Arlington Heights.

Two airmen parachuted to safety from the other plane.

Four Whites Sent To Jail For Flogging

GREENVILLE, S. C. (INS)—Four white men, convicted of flogging a 58-year-old negro, were sentenced to between one and six years in prison today at Greenville Criminal Court.

Judge James Brailsford administered the heaviest sentence to Andrew Rochester, 39, a former "exalted cyclops" of the Ku Klux Klan. Rochester, who has a previous manslaughter conviction, was sentenced to six years at hard labor.

One-year terms were given to Robert E. Waldrop, 28, and Jack Bentley, 24. Henry Howard, 29, was sentenced to three years in prison.

The men were among 11 defendants who were charged in the beating of farmer Claude Cruell who testified that they "beat me with chains and clubbed me until I couldn't see."

Charges against five of the accused were dropped yesterday and they were released. Innocent verdicts had been returned for two men.

The assault occurred six months ago when Cruell was caring for seven white children while the father rushed his wife to a hospital.

Man, 94, Jailed 30 Years Ago, Starts His Life Anew

COLUMBUS (AP)—John Morgan, 94, starts a new life today. Morgan is being released from Ohio Penitentiary. He will have a new suit—a gift of the state—a bus ticket to Cleveland and some $300 that has accumulated in his "personal account" at the penitentiary.

Convicted in 1928 of the slaying of a Cleveland junk dealer, he was sentenced to life imprisonment. After being turned down 10 times by the parole board, he was granted his freedom at the 11th hearing.

Morgan has maintained his innocence in the slaying of Jacob Rosenberg in Cleveland.

Hike In Debt Ceiling Gets House Okeh

328-71 Vote Sends Temporary 5 Billion
Boost On To Senate

WASHINGTON (INS)—The House overwhelmingly approved a five billion dollar temporary hike in the debt ceiling today after defeating a GOP-sponsored move to hold the increase to three billions.

The bill, requested by President Eisenhower a week ago, goes to the Senate where the Finance Committee is scheduled to take it up Monday.

To June 30, 1959
The legislation would set the debt limit at 260 billion dollars until June 30, 1959, when it would revert to 275 billion.

Mr. Eisenhower asked for the increase to insure that the federal government had enough cash on hand to pay the one and one-half billion dollars in bills that come due each week and also for elbow room in handling debt financing.

The actual amount of outstanding debt has been within a few hundred million dollars of the ceiling for the past several months.

Sought Four Times
The increase represents the fourth time in five years that the President has sought an increase in the statutory limit of 275 billion dollars.

The bill was passed by a 328 to 71 vote after members rejected a move by Rep. John Byrnes (R-Wis.), to hold the increase to three billions. The vote on the Byrnes amendment was 275 to 114.

The measure now goes to the Senate.

Tunnel Fire Fatal To Two Miner Crushed In W. Va. Mishap

LONDON (AP)—Two firemen were killed and eight others overcome by thick, fatty smoke today as a stubborn blaze raged out of control in a maze of tunnels beneath a huge central London wholesale meat market. Officials believed there might be more casualties.

Crates of turkeys and other poultry, stacked from floor to ceiling in a 21-acre labyrinth of underground passages, sputtered in the intense heat from wood impregnated with fat.

One fireman who came out of the maze of tunnels after the maximum five minutes that a shift could stand, said: "To get lost down there now means almost certain death. One can see nothing and the heat is unbearable."

21 New Areas Have Surpluses Of Labor
WASHINGTON (AP)—Reporting rising unemployment, the Labor Department says it has designated 21 new areas as having substantial labor surpluses.

The additions raised the total of such areas to 45. A year ago, 19 areas were so designated. These areas qualify for special consideration in government contract award.

Corruption, Racketeers' Curbs Cited

Parts Of 12-Point
Plan Hit By Union
People, Employers

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower today urged Congress to curb "corruption, racketeering and abuse of trust and power in the labor-management field." He made the recommendation in a 12-point proposal for legislation.

In a special message, Eisenhower recommended specifically that unions be subject to loss of legal bargaining status if they fail to file true and proper data on their finances and other subjects.

Against a background of congressional inquiries disclosing abuses in the labor-management field, Eisenhower called for legislation "to benefit and protect the welfare of American workers and the general public."

Greater Harmony
He added it should curb abuses, and provide greater harmony and stability in labor-management relations.

The entire 12-point legislative program recommended by Eisenhower had been unveiled previously by Secretary of Labor Mitchell. He outlined it in a speech at the AFL-CIO convention last December.

As given out in the Mitchell address, the program had drawn fire from both labor leaders who contended it went too far, and management spokesmen who said it did not go far enough.

Chances Lessened
Coupled with the normal political wariness of congressmen on labor matters in an election year, that lack of enthusiasm lessened chances for major parts of the program to get through this year.

Abuses at which Eisenhower aimed have been sharply outlined in hearings before the Senate Rackets Investigating Committee headed by Sen. McClellan (D-Ark.). That group is preparing its own proposed remedies.

Mitchell's advance outline of the Eisenhower proposals were labeled by the U.S. Chamber of Commerce as "weak and pro-union," by the National Assn. of Manufacturers as "mild and inadequate," and by the AFL-CIO as "largely unnecessary."

Here are some of the administration recommendations that Mitchell told about in advance: Require unions to disclose their financial operations in detail to the government.

Make unions failing to file true and proper reports liable to loss of their tax exempt status and access to the National Labor Relations Board.

Make union embezzlements subject to federal instead of state prosecution. It would be felony for employers to bribe union officials and unions to bribe an employer's representative.

Require unions to hold secret ballot elections to increase the members' voice in choosing their officials.

Disclose publicly the operations of all welfare funds whether union or employer operated or jointly administered.

Require public reports by employers or union officials of any payments to one another.

Miner Crushed In W. Va. Mishap
LOGAN (AP)—Calip Jackson, 46, of Omar, an employee of the Omar Mining Co., was fatally crushed between two cars at the No. 5 tipple early today.

Jackson, an employee of the firm for 30 years, was working as a car-dropper at the plant. It was the first mining industry death in Logan County this year.

Labor Rights Bill Entered By Knowland

T-H Amendments
To Be Offered To Senate During Day

WASHINGTON (INS)—Senate GOP Leader William F. Knowland today offered his "bill of rights" for labor and said it is designed to assure union members "adequate representation" in their affairs.

The California Republican made public the text of amendments to the Taft-Hartley Labor Act he plans to introduce in the Senate today and said he believes they will receive favorable consideration from Congress "now or in the not too distant future."

Protects Members
Knowland's series of amendments would assure government protection for union members deprived of their right to vote in union elections.

They also provide for NLRB conducted elections on issues of recall, strike decisions and changes in union dues or rules. Limit tenure of labor agreements and set up federal registration of employee welfare plans, among other changes.

Officials Misuse Power
In a speech prepared for Senate delivery, he said congressional hearings have "forcefully demonstrated that the powers of a considerable number of union officials are being misused."

He said this does not mean an "indictment against all labor officials."

He added that he realized he would face the "hostility of certain union officials who do not want their vested positions of power disturbed." But, he said, he is "willing to assume this risk."

College Fire Hits Library

LORETTO, Pa. (AP)—The two-story frame library building of St. Francis College burned to the ground today in a spectacular fire which college officials said caused a loss of at least a half million dollars. No one was hurt.

The building, a World War II surplus structure, was known as Padua Hall.

It contained 45,000 bound volumes, many of them priceless.

The concert sponsored by the Alliance Francaise brought her back to the scene of her first American triumph and also marked her first appearance since the Rome revolt Jan. 2.

At times, the audience appeared unable to wait for her to conclude an aria before beginning an out-

New Winter Storm Stirs; Toll Hits 36

By The Associated Press
A new storm brewed today in northern Mexico in the wake of winter's worst storm—one which took at least 36 lives before it spent itself over the nation's Northeast.

The Weather Bureau said the fresh disturbance already had brought rain and snow to Texas.

It was such a storm that cloaked an area stretching from the Plains to New England.

Parts of Kansas, Missouri, Iowa, Illinois, Wisconsin and southern Michigan were still digging out from under a snow blanket a foot thick or more.

As a parting gesture, the storm left New England coated with a treacherous glaze—the result of rain, freezing rain and sleet.

Illinois had the highest death toll with nine weather-attributed deaths. Missouri, Wisconsin, Iowa and Indiana each had six dead, and Kansas had three.

The rain area which obtained in Texas today is expected to gradually shift eastward through the Gulf states and reach the south Atlantic Coast by evening.

Jury Demands Police On Duty In All Schools
NEW YORK (AP)—The rape of a 13-year-old girl in the basement of a Brooklyn junior high school has brought a new grand jury demand for stationing policemen in every school.

School Supt. William Jansen replied that there was a patrolman in the school when the attack occurred Tuesday.

"As deplorable as this situation is, it does not appear that the presence of a policeman in a school can prevent a thing like that," said Jansen.

The Kings County grand jury recommended last November that a policeman be placed in each of the city's 918 public schools. School and police officials rejected the idea.

Jurists Shun Presidential Illness Unit

WASHINGTON (AP) — Reluctance of Supreme Court justices to serve on any commission to determine presidential disability apparently has narrowed the field of possible congressional action on this issue.

Chief Justice Warren expressed the court's views in a letter to the Rep. Keating (R-NY) yesterday, experiment might provide data on the reaction of the field outside the hearing on disability proposals.

House Republican Leader Martin of Massachusetts said that substantial agreement on a House bill had been reached at a conference he held with Speaker Rayburn (D-Tex.) and Rep. Celler (D-NY). He gave no details.

Keating, who had advocated a commission with Supreme Court representation, said he won't press for any such provision. Other proposals have suggested that the cabinet, congressional leaders, and combinations of various official groups be authorized to decide whether a president is incapable of performing his duties.

Sen. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.) announced he will offer a proposed constitutional amendment to authorize Congress to determine by resolution when a president is disabled.

Live Organism Set For Space Tests By Navy

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy plans to send some living organisms into outer space. A few yeast cells will be aboard one or more of the test satellites U.S. scientists hope to launch soon.

A Navy spokesman said last night the yeast would be enclosed in a tiny instrumented container inside the satellite, and that the experiment might provide data on the reaction of the field outside the earth's atmosphere.

The test satellites, forerunners of larger spheres which are scheduled for launching later, are only six inches in diameter, too small to accommodate any sizable living object.

Officials said there was no plan to place any living animal, even a small one, in the test spheres.

Two Senators Plan To Slap Ike Spending

O'Mahoney, Douglas Take Dim View Of Monetary Policies

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two Senate Democrats prepared today an attack on President Eisenhower's spending budget and his administration's monetary policies.

Sen. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.) said he intends to challenge in a Senate-House Economic Committee hearing next week Eisenhower's contention that the $73,934,000,000 budget for the year beginning July 1 will be balanced.

Interest On Debt Furthermore, O'Mahoney said, he wants the President's economic advisers to explain how they expect to pay the interest on a proposed five-billion-dollar increase in the national debt "when they plan to cut back on wealth-producing projects in the budget."

He referred to reclamation and other domestic development projects.

Sen. Douglas (D-Ill.) said in a separate interview he wants to know what the administration proposes to do about creating an economic climate in which business will move ahead with confidence.

Hopes Plan Will Work "I hope the action of the Federal Reserve system in lowering the discount rates will work," Douglas said.

The Federal Reserve Board has approved a drop from 3 to 2 1/2 per cent in the discount rate of the Philadelphia Reserve Bank, making money easier to borrow. Other banks are expected to follow suit.

"We need not only available credit, however, but a desire on the part of business if we are going to have an upturn," Douglas added.

Rocket Ship Test Slated Next Year

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The X15, an experimental rocket ship to be used in planning orbital flights by man, may be given its first test run early next year.

Air Force Capt. Iven C. Kinchloe and Joseph Walker of the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics said at a news conference that the X15 will be launched over the California desert from a B52 bomber at about 40,000 feet.

400 Gallons Still Missing:

Explosive Mixture Sold For Stove Heating Fuel

CHICAGO (AP) — A house-to-house search enveloped a West Side area when fire officials learned 1,300 gallons of an explosive gasoline-fuel oil mixture was mistakenly sold to scores of residents as stove fuel.

Residents had turned in 950 gallons at a central receiving station manned by firemen.

No explosions were reported, but Harry Mohr, deputy chief fire marshal, warned "a great potential for explosion" existed.

The fuel was purchased by residents of a densely populated low-rent district who live in flats mostly heated by space stoves.

Some 200 firemen, policemen and civil defense volunteers conducted the search, knocking on doors and broadcasting warnings with loudspeakers mounted on firetrucks.

Mohr set up his headquarters in a Martin Oil Co. station which sold the mixture. He checked off on a map each block of the four-square-mile area as police reported its residents had been warned.

Martin officials could not explain how the accident occurred. It was discovered when an official smelled gasoline fumes from a wholesale dealer's truck which had supposedly been filled with fuel oil.

Warnings were immediately broadcast.

Gaillard Wins Confidence Vote PARIS (AP) — A two-day National Assembly debate on foreign affairs ended last night with a 343-224 vote of confidence in Premier Felix Gaillard's government.

Solon States Nation Must Tighten Belt

Sen. Bridges Favors Strength Of Forces, Space Age Speedup

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Bridges (R-NH) said today "we must lighten our belts to do more for perhaps years to come" to surpass the Soviet Union in missiles and satellites.

Bridges, chairman of the Senate GOP Policy Committee and senior Republican on the Senate Preparedness subcommittee, said in an interview: "There is no blinking away from the enormity of the task we face. We must strengthen our forces-in-being. We must advance the availability date of quantities of new, more powerful weapons. We must prosecute a vigorous space program."

Reorganization Pushed The subcommittee was told by Secretary of Defense McElroy that he expects to have an administration reorganization plan ready for congressional action during the current session.

McElroy, who testified behind closed doors, drew praise from Sen. Johnson of Texas, Democratic leader of the Senate, who has been critical of what he has called the lack of a "sense of urgency" in the administration.

Johnson said he was impressed by McElroy's "candor, his determination to seek out facts before taking a position, and his willingness to assume his due responsibilities once a position is taken."

Lists 14 Steps McElroy listed "14 steps that have been taken to speed up important programs since Sputnik I was placed in orbit and this inquiry began." Johnson said in giving newsmen the essence of the secretary's testimony.

These 14 steps, all previously announced, covered such moves as stepped-up work on missiles and research of various types, plans for wider dispersal of strategic bombers, and establishment of an agency to supervise research on space projects.

OUR COUNTRY

The union of hearts, the union of hands and the flag of our Union forever—Morris.

Same Old Problem

AS ALWAYS, Congress will engage in bitter combat this year over programs involved in what the administration calls mutual security and what is generally called foreign aid. Since the first days of the original Marshall plan for European recovery, there never has been a season without a fight on this issue. In his budget message President Eisenhower this time requested $3,900,000,000 for foreign aid, as against $3,750,000,000 for the current fiscal year. Congress in 1957 actually voted only $2,800,000,000 in appropriations for this purpose. Beyond doubt it will be swinging hard against the new requests.

ABOUT THREE billion dollars of the total now sought by the President would go for direct military aid to foreign countries or for what is labeled defense support — which means economic help directly connected with the build-up and maintenance of another nation's armed forces. All other foreign aid, mostly economic, would come to 783 million dollars under the 1958-59 budget, as compared with 604 million this past year. When Congress shoots at the military aid-defense support part of this program, it does so with the realization that as it diminishes the military strength of our friends and allies, it must somehow offset this loss by boosting the substance of our own defense establishment. It does not have the same concern over economic aid, since over the years more and more lawmakers have become less and less convinced of its necessity. Yet today it must set its fading interest in this kind of aid against the insistence of Mr. Eisenhower and others that the United States should make a more determined effort to combat the Soviet Union on the economic and political battle-grounds of the world.

WE HAVE STILL to learn, of course, how hard the President will press for military and economic assistance this year, and how successful he will be in persuading Congress. But even if he should score heavily, we must all hope that Congress nevertheless would apply to the foreign aid program — as to all others now being energetically advanced as vital to our security against a hard-driving Russia — the test of real usefulness in all its details. We cannot use the atmosphere of crisis to justify careless, unthinking expenditure. The waste of dollars helps neither us nor our friends, but only our enemies. At whatever level of outlay, only a tight foreign aid program can be a good one.

Help, Not 'Systems'

EVERYONE, practically speaking, has made mistakes in thought if not in action concerning the present world in which we live, and the crisis which lays so many dead and icy hands upon humanity. In this situation, we should see our own mistakes and not merely those of others, and of our enemies. This caution is important to remember when we criticize others and attack enemies. Having expressed it, then, let us make one important point concerning the repeated proposals and demands of Khrushchev for competitive but peaceful co-existence. If Khrushchev wants peaceful co-existence, why must it be competitive on the basis of the triumph of one or another system? Khrushchev calls these systems "socialist" and "capitalist," but he is talking about the Soviet Union and the United States. If the nations in need of help could be aided and they could find their own way, this would be better than for them to accept one or another "system." As long as the world crisis is fought out in such competitive terms, and even with war being avoided, the struggle will be one for control of peoples. If India, for example, can develop in its own way under adequate leadership, why must it prove that either of the two "systems" is better or worse? Briefly, humanity can develop more without being made the object of conflict in terms of two monolithic, conceived "systems."

What Means Can Help National Economy?

NEW YORK — The high cost of Comrade Khrushchev's strutting is a factor in frustrating fulfillment of the Eisenhower promise in 1952 to reduce U.S. Federal spending.

A symbol of non-achievement of the Eisenhower fiscal promise was put into words by President Eisenhower at his recent press conference in which he indicated that a budgetary deficit would be preferable to a tax rate increase.

Thus the area of difference between New Deal and Fair Deal fiscal policy, on the one hand, and that of modern Republicanism, on the other, is narrowing, to a dramatic extent.

Since the Sputniks, the bipartisan angling for credit in introducing a tax cut during this Congressional election year has been replaced by a new slogan to the effect that tax rate cuts must be postponed in light of the critical international situation.

The new trend is to urge a tax freeze, even if it results in deficit financing.

CURIOUSLY enough, the most emphatic protest against the new crystallization of emotions in favor of a tax freeze came from the two principal national business organizations.

They argue in favor of initiation of the long-term program for downward revision of excessive tax rates in accordance with the formula of the Sadlak-Herlong bill. This proposed measure would spread tax revision over a five-year period, with flexibility of stretching it out for nine years if the national interest required.

While giving lip service to the tax freeze, Secretary of the Treasury Robert B. Anderson, in his testimony before the House Ways and Means Committee, showed flexibility. He said, "I can conceive of a situation in which we might try to consider the stimulus that would come from a lightening of tax burdens."

Presumably Secretary Anderson meant that if recovery did not start on schedule, the Administration might resort to the stimulus advocated by the business organizations.

THE SPONSORS of the Sadlak-Herlong bill contend that the choice that lies ahead is between inflation, with a resumption of Federal deficit financing, on the one hand, and healthy economic growth, on the other.

This debate may help to upset the prevailing delusion that in a time of urgency it is prudent to perpetuate an inequitable and frustrating tax structure.

While the Soviet Union's aggressive attitude is the principal inflator of U.S. budgets, it is not the sole cause.

Though originally President Eisenhower opposed such jumbo budgets, the Chief Executive tended to weaken and dilute his position in a press conference nearly a year ago when he remarked that the people are demanding more (social) services and they deserve them.

This year, in the biggest peace-time budget, the President, in properly urging stepping up the military budget, undertook to hold the line on non-defense expenditures.

WHILE a stand-still on non-defense items may be an improvement, it may not be drastic enough to provide the funds needed for missiles and scientific research without initiating a new cycle of inflation.

From a short term standpoint during a business recession, some will view complacently the prospect of a budgetary deficit in the thought that it will act as a "needle" to give business a shot in the arm.

Up to now, the existing onerous tax rates have not been tested in a non-inflationary period. It is questionable whether the burdens could be faced without the crutch of inflation.

Some economists think that budgets should be balanced over a whole economic cycle rather than in a single year. But in recent years of boom, no substantial progress was made in building up budgetary surpluses, and reducing the public debt.

If whopping surpluses had been accumulated, then a temporary deficit would have a less damaging effect on public credit and business confidence.

OUR PRESENT Federal Tax structure, which is unduly dependent on profit, which is the most volatile factor in business, has a type of built-in flexibility, with the tax "bite" tending automatically to be reduced during dips in the national economy.

Instead of freezing the existing tax hedge-podge, the Congress would be better advised to revise the revenue law so as to draw more heavily on relatively more stable factors, such as transactions and gross sales.

If we stand still in rates in a time of business recession, revenues will automatically decline. And the official effort to balance the budget of the forthcoming fiscal year starting July 1 next with predictions of a resumption of the upturn in business is indeed speculative.

The Great Debate is whether to try to stimulate the national economy with another shot of inflation or with new incentives in the form of sensible tax revision.

Ike Finds No Real Reasons For Decline

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — An early 1958 recovery from the business recession at the end of 1957 is the most important prediction in President Eisenhower's new Economic Report.

"As we look ahead in 1958," writes the President in his letter of transmittal to Congress, "there are grounds for expecting . . . that economic growth can be resumed without extended intervention."

When the turn-up comes, it is expected to be solid economic expansion, and not a temporary, defense spending WPA.

Careful study of the President's report, however, discloses factors that might delay this recovery till the end of 1958 or even later.

NOWHERE in the main body of the report is justification for optimism spelled out in one, two, three fashion. By digging, however, anyone can come up with these main reasons why the government thinks 1958 will be better:

1. The decline in business investment spending which began in 1956 has run its course. Since these declines never last long, an early upturn may be expected.

2. There are signs that the rise in residential construction outlays will continue, possibly at a faster pace.

3. The rate of letting contracts for missile research and procurement may stimulate recovery faster than actual government expenditures of some four billion dollars.

4. Inventory replacement by private business—to make up for last year's big inventory liquidations—is expected to be a significant factor in recovery.

5. Federal highway expenditures of over two billion dollars will stimulate state and local government spending.

6. Normal U. S. population growth of three million people a year creates big new consumer demand and markets.

THIS summarizes the good side of the new Economic Report. But by further digging, reasons are found why there may be quite a delay in this hoped-for recovery.

The dirty words "recession" or "depression" aren't mentioned in this report. What the country has been through or is in now is called a "decline."

The report confesses that there is no simple explanation for this decline and no easy solution for the problems of maintaining high employment, vigorous economic growth and reasonably stable prices which are the administration goals.

The great fields of uncertainty are found in possible future trends of wage and price levels.

The report admits candidly that while the money value of national production rose 5 per cent in 1957, in physical terms the increase in productivity was only 1 per cent. The other 4 per cent was just a rise in prices, or inflation.

At the same time, the margin between business costs and prices was narrowed. Profits were reduced. And by the end of the year production and employment were declining.

OFF THE record and not spelled out clearly in the report, some credence is given here to the idea that if business had held prices lower, more goods would have been sold, the unit costs of production would have been lower and business profits for the year would have been higher.

A continuation of high pricing policies in 1958 might naturally be expected to prolong the economic decline.

The second major factor of uncertainty in the background is wages. Forthcoming labor contract negotiations in the auto and other major industries cause apprehension.

It is freely admitted that if the

Glancing Sideways

NEW YORK — Mary Orr, who is beautiful and has a combination of talents which gleam, such as writing, acting and giving her guests the best dinner on Central Park South, told me this story the other morning, blustering night, and I like it:

In Abruzzi, in the hills beyond Rome, in the interval between the two great wars, the child was restless. She was nine years old and bright in the head and Abruzzi was not enough. Her playmates were not enough. School was not enough and even home was not enough. She wanted to know more about the world outside, and children in it.

"THERE IS a little magazine, a children's magazine in Italy," her father told her mother one night, "and if we get it for her, I think she may find an outlet for some of her restlessness. They have a department where children from different areas exchange letters."

They got it for her and she was entranced. She had scarcely reached the last page before she took out paper, pen and ink and was writing a letter:

"I want to write to and get answers from other girls my age—Gina."

A FEW WEEKS passed and a new issue came out and there was her small letter. A few more weeks passed and the town postman came by with a letter for her. It too was a small letter and from a nine-year-old girl in Trieste.

"I have read your letter and I think we can write each other with interest to both. — Anna Muller."

GINA AND ANNA started to write each other and they wrote each other every day for nine years. When Gina was 18 years old, the war was on, but they still wrote to each other and, one day, Gina walked to the post office with her letter to Anna.

She was dropping it in the slot, when she heard the high, piercing whine of a bomb whistling down and then heard the dull explosion.

When the bombers had passed on, she walked back home — but it wasn't there. It was obliterated and, in a few minutes, she knew the truth: her entire family was obliterated, also. If she had not gone to mail her letter to Anna, she would have been obliterated with them.

SHE GATHERED together what she could in a few days and went down to Rome. The American soldiers were beginning to enter Rome and she found a way to earn her living.

She nailed together a crude easel, borrowed and begged some paper and crayons, and stood on street corners drawing American soldiers for a few lire. Enough for food and a room for herself. When she found time, she went to see the magazine editor and sold him some amusing little drawings of street life in Rome. She signed them — Gina. In a few months, the editor had another visitor — Anna. Anna had seen the drawings, recognized the technique from similar little things Gina used to put in her letters. Where was she? The editor gave Anna the address of Gina — and they met, for the first time.

"YOU MUST learn something beside drawing," said Anna. "Something more valuable for a living. I have a connection at Cinecittà, where they make movies, and I can get you in as a hairdresser."

"I don't know anything about it," said Gina.

"I will have you taught," said Anna.

Gina went to Cinecittà and learned hairdressing and became a good one, to the extent that important women stars asked for her in preference to any other. In time she did a bit in a picture, on a director's whim, and then fate exploded. She became a great star, the greatest in Italy and, some think, in the world.

And all this is why Anna Muller, of Trieste, is production secretary on every film that Gina Lollobrigida makes and is part of the Lollobrigida production firm.

Grandma As Baby Sitter

PHILADELPHIA — When a young mother needs a good baby-sitter, her best bet is Grandma.

Even if the young mother is Princess Grace of Monaco.

That's why Mrs. John Kelly of Philadelphia is heading for Monaco next week to take care of Grace's baby daughter, Princess Caroline.

"The baby's a year old today," explained Grandma Kelly. "So her nurse is entitled to a vacation. Grace wrote and asked her mother to come help out while the nurse is away."

Mrs. Kelly will stay on as palace baby-sitter through March, when Princess Grace is expecting her second baby.

IT WOULD MAKE Grandma Kelly very happy, he admitted, if the second baby was a boy.

"We've got eight grandchildren," said the Philadelphia construction tycoon. "All wonderful healthy children. But there are seven girls and one boy. We need a few more boys to balance it up."

Right now, Caroline, who would succeed to the throne if there were no male heirs, is having problems learning how to toddle.

"She's just learning to walk by herself," reported Caroline's proud grandmother. "And she has several teeth already."

"But she's not a cranky baby. She never cries much. Always has a big smile, and makes friends easily. She smiles her way right out of every predicament."

WHAT KIND of predicament can a one-year-old Princess get into? Well for one thing, she has to stop biting the ears of the poodles, even though the poodles don't mind being used as teething-rings.

But the baby Princess has had no difficulty in learning the more important things: Like smiling when her parents take her for public appearances on their palace balcony, or behaving at parties.

"The baby went to several parties at Christmas time," Mrs. Kelly noted. "Did very well, too."

MRS. KELLY, busy packing some new baby things for her next grandchild, said yellow will be the preferred nursery color for Caroline's brother or sister as well as for Caroline.

"Grace hasn't said she's planning to change the nursery," Mrs. Kelly explained. "So I'm buying yellow. But not much—there are so many baby things left that Caroline didn't use."

MARCEL Palmero, Monaco's consul in New York, said there would be little fuss either in or out of the palace to mark Caroline's birthday. He added that only one birthday will be a really big event in Princess Caroline's history.

When she is 21, she will pick her own nationality. She is a citizen of both Monaco and the United States now. The decision will probably depend on whether she has a brother, but there's not much doubt of that. The Prince and Princess want a big family."

Leadership

LEADERSHIP is easy when things are going well. It becomes more difficult, and more necessary, as the road ahead grows rougher. New light has been shed on this truism by Dr. Donald W. Hastings, who was chief psychiatrist to the Eighth Air Force in World War II.

Dr. Hastings, now chief of psychiatry at the University of Minnesota, said in an interview the other day that anxiety is a healthy phenomenon that can help us to deal with our national problems. The trick is to channel it properly. And that is where leadership comes in.

The present national situation, Dr. Hastings believes, demands a certain anxiety. The United States is facing real difficulties, and in this psychiatrist's view "the thing to worry about today would be if people were not getting excited." He regards a healthy anxiety as "the motivating factor by which people get action."

Dr. Hastings told his interviewer, "We learned in the war — by painful experience — that the channeling of anxiety, whether in a constructive or crippling way, is largely a function of leadership."

This is as true at moments of peacetime crisis as it was of the wartime situation. Translating popular anxiety into the right kind of action is the responsibility of the nation's leaders.

Citizens can do their part by urging the government to act constructively, and by pitching in with a will when leadership is made evident.

So They Say

If (federal) scholarships go primarily into science and mathematics, many talented young Americans will be tempted to leave the subject of their true and natural interest, in which they can serve best, for subjects in which they pretend an interest chiefly because of available scholarships.

Roscoe L. West, spokesman for the American Council on Education which urges an "across-the-board" scholarship program by Congress.

Vice President Nixon called the Russian system slavery. All right, slavery it is, but damned efficient slavery. . . . We cherish our freedom. . . . but it is sadly inefficient freedom.

Sir David Eccles, president of the British Board of Trade.

Now that they (the Russians) have sought to impress the world with their scientific and technological progress . . . they may be even more ready to embark on or to support aggressive action to enhance their world position.

Maj. Gen. H. N. Toffey, Redstone Arsenal commander, warning of danger of another "limited war."

Reporter's Notebook

NEW YORK — "Real love is sacrifice," said Ricardo Montalban, who typifies the Latin lover to millions of movie fans.

Montalban, currently starring in the Broadway musical, "Jamaica," has also appeared in some 50 films, and he's a bit weary of portraying Don Juan roles, roles in which he has to be a Casanova with a Spanish accent.

"The Don Juans of this world are not romantic or carefree," he said. "They are miserable frustrated creatures lost in their own egos."

"The most romantic man I know is my father. He is 88, and has been faithful to one woman all his life. He and my mother have been married 55 years."

RICARDO DISLIKES the phrase "Latin lover" and can't see that it has any real meaning—certainly not to one like him who had parents who were "tradition-minded."

"A Latin lover, an American lover, a Chinese lover—where is the difference?" he asked. "In any country real love is always the same."

Montalban believes the American husband is in some ways the best and kindest in the world, but that he sometimes shirks his duty in the home.

"He sometimes wants too much to be just a nice Joe to his wife and children," he said. "He hates the word authority too much."

"A wife likes to be secure and protected, but she can't feel protected if she can always twist her man around her little finger and boss him. She feels lost and insecure."

To Montalban the failure of American parents to exercise more discipline on their children is little less than appalling.

"This theory that you shouldn't curb a child's instincts but let him express himself in any way, let him paint on the wall, let him do anything, even set fire to the furniture, is nothing less than catastrophic," he said.

"It makes him unhappy, not happy. Children are much happier under discipline that teaches them justice."

AND HERE, Montalban feels, is where some of the trouble in the American home starts. The parents can't very well discipline the kids if they can't first discipline themselves.

"Too many of us have the wrong idea of freedom," he said. "We think of freedom as the right to do anything we want to do. That is license, not liberty. True freedom is actually simply the right to do what we ought to do."

"We are too prone to discard old truths for new spectacular lies — merely because they are new and spectacular."

Well, scratch a Latin lover, and you find a family philosopher.

George Dixon

Washington Scene

WASHINGTON—The millennium must be nearer at hand than we dreamed. A Democratic Senator now confesses he was the tempter who lured our Republican Vice President into making himself a sitting duck for pot shots from another Democratic Senator.

A few weeks ago Richard M. Nixon flew down to Miami for a brief respite with his inseparable buddy, Attorney General William P. Rogers. To save money they went air coach. Both were pallid and wan, and wanted only to sun themselves on the beach, but this was out. The vaunted Florida weather, to quote the quasi-judicial opinion of Attorney General Rogers, was too lousy.

The day before they were to depart, the weather suddenly turned nice. Mr. Nixon was out, soaking up his first sun, when along came Senator George A. Smathers, of Florida. The Vice President remarked to the Floridian that he would give most anything for just one additional day, but that he had to leave at daybreak on the morrow.

"I have to be in Washington for a cabinet meeting the day following," he explained sadly.

"But if the cabinet meeting is not until the day after tomorrow why do you have to leave tomorrow?" asked Senator Smathers.

"Because," replied the nation's No. 2 Man, "I have my air coach reservation for tomorrow and there's nothing open the day after. I have telephoned a dozen times and can't get it changed," he added, resignedly.

SENATOR Smathers gaped in astonishment. When he had recovered himself he said persuasively:

"Listen, Richard, it appears to be time that I acquainted you with some of the facts of official life. Are you not aware that we have jet Navy tanker planes at International Airport here which are constantly flying to Washington?"

"Oh, I couldn't take advantage of that, George," protested the Vice President.

"Why not?" demanded the tempter. "If a plane is going to Washington anyway, and there is extra room, why shouldn't you avail yourself of it? Nobody could object. I've done it myself," he added.

"You have?" exclaimed the Vice President.

"Yes. And you are just as entitled to it as I am. These are Navy planes and you are a member of the Naval Reserve, as I am of the Marines."

This cinched it. Mr. Nixon took the extra day on the beach and flew back the day following in a Navy aircraft.

SENATOR Smathers remained in Florida. A couple of days later he read that his Democratic colleague, Senator A. S. Mike Monroney, of Oklahoma, had blisteringly assailed the turning over of a jet tanker to the Vice President.

"Oh—oh!" Senator Smathers moaned to himself. "Dick Nixon will think I deliberately set him up for this."

The Floridian returned to Washington in time for the big party the Nixons had for the Senate in their new $75,000 home. Smathers joined the receiving line, planning to straighten himself out with the Vice President, but 96 Senators and their ladies made too big a crush, and he had to keep moving. Over in a corner he spotted Senator Monroney, looking rather uncomfortable.

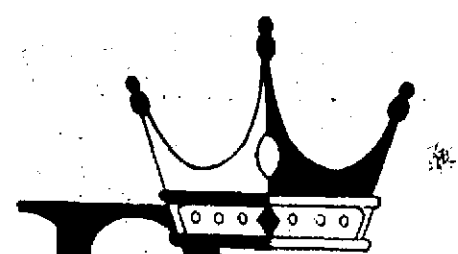

Smathers explained to Monroney what had happened. When the receiving line thinned out, the two Democratic Senators went up to the GOP host and Smathers repeated his confession.

The Vice President looked very happy about it, and Monroney more comfortable. All three sked each other.

Later Senator Smathers told me: "I didn't want Dick Nixon thinking that we Democrats have to resort to entrapment to get something on Republicans."

Man Awaits Extradition For Slaying

McCormick Captured Near Parkersburg; Killed 1, Wounded 2

PARKERSBURG, W. Va. (AP) — Sullen-faced Sidney Wood McCormick, 26, was in Wood County Jail today awaiting to be returned to his native Lynchburg, Va., to face charges of murdering his ex-wife's grandmother and of the malicious wounding of two other persons.

McCormick was held on a federal charge of unlawful flight to avoid prosecution in Virginia following his capture yesterday in a sodden briar patch near Parkersburg. More than 15 city, county and state police officers took part in an all-night manhunt before the unemployed, onetime factory worker was tracked down.

Virginia officers have accused McCormick of killing Mrs. Alma Walton Davis, 66, wounding Mrs. Davis' daughter, Mrs. Alma Davis Powell, 33, and his ex-wife, Mrs. Beverly Jean McCormick, 19.

Bizarre Series Of Events

McCormick's capture climaxed a bizarre series of events that started after his wife was granted a final divorce decree and the custody of their two children — a boy and a girl — Monday.

Police quoted Mrs. McCormick that she was awakened early Tuesday by her husband beating her with a pistol. The shootings followed. She was forced to accompany McCormick in the automobile of her aunt, Mrs. Powell, and they drove all day through Virginia, a tip of Maryland and West Virginia.

The trip ended near here yesterday when McCormick finally heeded his ex-wife's plea to let her seek medical attention. Bruised, bleeding from a wound in her left shoulder, and suffering a slight skull fracture, Mrs. McCormick was finally let out at a farmhouse at Deer Walk, some 15 miles east of here. The farm family promptly notified State Police who took the injured woman to the Camden Clark Hospital where she was reported to be in fair condition.

Waives Hearing

McCormick waived preliminary hearing before U.S. Commissioner Daniel B. Douglass and was remanded to jail under $25,000 bond.

Warrants on the federal charge, which is tantamount to extradition proceedings, were sent to the U.S. District Attorney's office at Fairmont. They will be turned over to Federal Judge H.S. Boreman here.

McCormick was captured by State Trooper B.W. Adkins and Police Chief Gerald Sinnett of nearby Vienna.

Sinnett spotted McCormick's car Tuesday night on a side road and shot up one of the tires. McCormick jumped out and fled on foot. Sinnett confiscated two guns which McCormick had left on the seat, reported his position via police radio and set out in pursuit.

After the all night search, Sinnett and Adkins found McCormick lying on the ground in the Red Hill section, three miles east of Parkersburg.

McCormick surrendered without a struggle. He was unarmed. On him was a little more than a dollar in change.

McCormick later told officers: "I wish you had killed me."

DEJECTED CAPTIVE — James McCormick, 25, of Lynchburg, Va., stands dejectedly between Vienna (Va.) # Friends, Foes Gather To Pay Neely Tribute

FAIRMONT, W. Va. (AP) — Political friends and foes alike gathered here with other notables to pay final tribute to U.S. Sen. Matthew Mansfield Neely.

The 63-year-old Democrat who blazed a trail that took him to the U.S. Senate, to the House of Representatives and to the governorship of West Virginia during his 30 years on the political scene, was laid to rest in cold and snowy weather.

Nine of Neely's Senate colleagues, including Republican Leader William F. Knowland of California came from Washington. So did President John L. Lewis of the United Mine Workers.

Gov. Underwood headed a list of state dignitaries which included former Gov. Marland, a delegation from the Legislature and members of the Board of Public Works.

Neely died Saturday in the U.S. Naval Hospital at Bethesda, Md., after a 15-month struggle with cancer. Ironically, it was Neely who led a fight in Congress for a larger appropriation for cancer research.

Congress and the West Virginia Legislature were in recess for the funeral services that were conducted in the First Presbyterian Church to which Neely had belonged for years. Burial followed in Woodlawn Cemetery.

"Senator Neely was a fighter. He kept the faith."

Thus read a tribute to Neely written by Senate Chaplain Frederick Brown Harris, and read by the Rev. Frank C. Marvin Jr., who conducted the service.

Others here from the Senate were Chapman Revercomb (R-W. Va.), James E. Murray (D-Mont.), Lister Hill (D-Ala.), Wayne L. Morse (D-Ore.), Frank Carlson (R-Kan.), J. Glenn Beall (R-Md.), Pat McNamara (D-Mich.) and Strom Thurmond (D-S.C.).

Here from the West Virginia delegation in the House of Representatives were Reps. Will E. Neal, Harley O. Staggers, Robert C. Byrd and Cleveland M. Bailey.

Despite the bitter weather, the church and the streets outside were crowded.

Some of the people present wore work clothes. Others wore furs.

Neely was "a true friend of the laboring men, and especially of the miners," went the tribute. As the chairman of the Senate District of Columbia Committee, which made him unofficial mayor of Washington, he "toiled steadfastly for what he considered to be the highest interests of the national capital," it said.

An honor guard of members of the National Guard, with which Neely served in the Spanish-American War, and Fairmont policemen and firemen stood by the flag-draped casket during the service. Neely was elected mayor of Fairmont in 1908 at the start of his political career.

The tribute said: "We remember today his vivid personality, his rugged belief in government, not of the elect but of the elected; his uncompromising candor, his hate of cant and hypocrisy; his unbroken loyalty to the welfare of the toilers for a more abundant life."

Suicide is the eighth leading cause of death among white males in the United States.

The pocket gopher is one of the few animals that can run backward as fast and as easily as it can move forward.

The accident rate for school-trained teen-age drivers is 50 percent lower than the rate for those who "just learned" to drive.

Filing Accurate Forms Will Aid Tax Return

BALTIMORE (AP) — The best way to get a tax refund — if you're due one — is to send the return in early and avoid mistakes. That tip on filing of State income taxes comes from Comptroller J. Millard Tawes. He said the Income Tax Division has begun mailing refunds to those who have money due them and have submitted an accurate form. One of the main reasons why the division has to send the tax money back is because a taxpayer has failed to enclose the withholding statement given employees by their employers. The filing deadline is April 15.

Complicated And Lengthy Will And Fraud Case Ordered Reinstated In New Jersey Court

TRENTON, N. J. (AP)—The New Jersey Supreme Court has reinstated a complicated will and fraud case in New Jersey courts. The state's highest court said yesterday a lower court judge was wrong in dismissing the suit last year on grounds that California courts had jurisdiction. The case has not even finished.

The 1956 suit is by Nathan C. Starr of Gainesville, Fla.; Rosamond Starr Belt of Oxford, Md.; and Frederic H. Starr of Englewood, Fla. They are sons and daughter of William J. Starr, who died in 1921 in Wisconsin and left them and other children his valuable estate. In the complaint, they charged that lawyer Raymond H. Berry of Burney, Calif., and Newark, N. J., sold off timberlands in Shasta County, Calif., at "a grossly deficient and unfair price." They say the 1955 sale was for $324,322—$1,225,677 less than they say it was worth—and greatly enriched Berry and other stockholders of the Scott Lumber Co. of California and Newark at the expense of the estate's beneficiaries. Berry and other defendants said all the transactions were proper and in good faith and that Starr heirs had given their okay in 1955, except for Nathan.

The Supreme Court ruled that it is clear that plaintiffs (the Starr heirs) cannot be charged with bad faith in suing in New Jersey.

When the steamship Titanic was sunk in 1912 by an iceberg off the Newfoundland coast, 1,517 lives were lost.

Komla Agbeli Gbedemah, Minister of Finance for the new African nation of Ghana, occasionally wears a cap with the letters "P.G." He says this stands for Prison Graduate for his six months' imprisonment during the British colonial rule of the former Gold Coast.

Record, Maybe
NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—E. J. Portifex thinks perhaps he is on the losing end of a record of some kind. He reported to police the theft of two hubcaps from his car—the 20th and 21st stolen from him in a year.

WHITE HOUSE CHIEF—Maj. Ralph C. Stover, above, is the new chief of the White House Police. Stover, 46, has been a member of the White House force since 1940. He succeeds Maj. Hobart W. Francis, who retired after 22 years.

Legislators Will Visit Small Town

RIVIERA BEACH, Md. (AP)—How would you like to sit down to dinner with the six top officials of your state Legislature, then sit around and chew the fat about what they're going to do when the General Assembly convenes next month?

That uncommon privilege is in store for residents of this small community on the Patapsco River 10 miles southwest of Baltimore next Wednesday.

The idea behind the evening is a return to the Town Hall type of meeting that prevailed in Maryland during colonial times. And to keep it completely in tune, the forum will be held in a red school-house.

Representing the Legislature will be Senate President Louis L. Goldstein (D-Calvert), House Speaker John C. Lubber (D-Balto 5th), Senate Majority Leader John Grason Turnbull (D-Baltimore), Senate Minority Leader Harry T. Phoebus (R-Somerset), House Majority Leader A. Gordon Boone (D-Baltimore) and House Minority Leader George Raymond Hughes Jr. (R-Allegany).

The motivation for the public forum came from the Rev. Forrest P. Reynolds, pastor of the Community Methodist Church of Riviera Beach. His church is sponsoring the meeting.

"The sole purpose of this forum," Reynolds said, "is to encourage people to take more of an interest in their community and their state—to know what is going on around them so they can react more intelligently."

He said he had been asked many times why a church would be sponsoring such a meeting.

"I just answer, 'why not?' Every church has an obligation to try to improve its community. And to us, this seemed like a perfect way to carry out that obligation."

"We think that these public officials are showing a truly admirable display of public service and concern by agreeing to come."

"They even suggested it would provide a nice opportunity for them to learn first-hand how a typical cross-section might feel toward matters scheduled to come up before the Legislature."

After the dinner, starting at 6:30 p. m., the six legislators will form a panel to answer questions from four representative political reporters and from the floor relating to the month-long General Assembly session starting the following week.

The dinner-forum will be held at the Riviera Beach School, with the audience limited to 300 persons. Admission will be by dinner ticket ($3), with whatever profit remaining after food and miscellaneous costs going to the Church's Sunday school.

Mrs. Weber's Will Probated In Court

The will of Mrs. Johanna Margaret Weber, who died November 13 at the age of 81, was probated Tuesday in Allegany County Orphans Court.

Mrs. Weber left her household goods and furniture to a daughter, Mrs. Anna Irene Wilson, who qualified as executrix of the estate under a $500 bond. All the rest of her estate was ordered divided equally among her five children and one grandchild, Henry Oswald Weber, Anna Irene Wilson, Helen Mae Johnson, Ella Grace Fisher, Jo Ann Boyd and Donna Jo Boyd. The will was dated July 1, 1953.

White House Observers Believe Dr. Milton Eisenhower Still Has Strong Influence On President

WASHINGTON (AP)—Dr. Milton Eisenhower hasn't been on any good will missions to other nations lately but White House observers believe his influence with the President is as strong as ever. From years, Dr. Eisenhower has played the role of consultant to his brother, President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Milton's influence has been brought to the eye most forcefully when he has been given such tasks as good will missions to South America and Mexico in recent years. The glare of publicity is not as strong these days, but Milton is believed to come and go at the White House even more frequently now that he is president of Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore.

Prior to that he had served for some years as president of Pennsylvania State University, a campus that is a good 200 miles from here by highway. He uses the living quarters en-lance, so that try as they will, members of the press are handicapped in trying to keep tabs on such visits.

"He could spend a couple days or a weekend here and no one in the press room would know it," said one observer.

It was pointed out that during the President's illnesses, brother Milton arrived at the scene almost immediately. During the last illness—the mild stroke in November—Mrs. Mamie Eisenhower, John, the President's son, and Milton were the first on hand.

In addition to visits to the White House, Milton also is known to travel to brother Ike's Gettysburg farm on weekends for family get-togethers.

Milton's advice on many matters always has been held in high regard by the President, it is pointed out.

So, although outward evidence of trust such as missions to other countries has been missing lately, observers say there is no reason for believing the intimacy between the brothers has diminished in the slightest.

Bill Slated To Stop Tax Loss In Md.

BALTIMORE — The Legislature will get a bill aimed at preventing property tax losses totaling $22,800,000 for Maryland's State, local and county governments, a Tax Commission official said yesterday.

Albert W. Ward, executive secretary of the commission, said the bill was designed to offset the effect of a recent Court of Appeals decision and will be introduced in the Legislature convening Feb. 5.

The decision, issued last year, was handed down in a case in which Sears Roebuck & Co. contended it suffered discrimination because its retail inventory was assessed at cost or market value while real estate assessments include allowances for "inflation and abnormalities."

The court ruled, in effect, that if such allowances are made for one type of property they must also apply to all types.

Ward said the bill to be introduced was drafted by Theodore C. C. Waters, assistant attorney general, to "restore the status quo."

"And we are sure this bill does it," he added. "If it doesn't we'll change it so that it does."

Ward had estimated the decision could cost the State $8,600,000 a year, the 23 counties a total of $5,300,000 and Baltimore City $8,900,000.

Policewoman To Be Hired In Ridgeley

The Town of Ridgeley is accepting applications for the position of policewoman.

Mayor Charles H. Fryer announced last night that during a meeting of the Mayor and Town Council yesterday afternoon it was decided to create the position in the interest of public safety.

He pointed out that the policewoman's duty will be protecting the lives of children who cross the Western Maryland Railway crossing on their way to and from school.

Mayor Fryer said applications will be accepted at his office up until January 31. Among the qualifications for the job are that a woman must be between the age of 25 and 45 and be a resident of Ridgeley.

She will be on duty five days a week at the railroad crossing during the morning hours when children are on their way to school, at noontime when they go home for lunch and return to classes, and also in the afternoon when classes are dismissed for the day.

Mayor Fryer commented on the job the policewomen are doing in Cumberland and said officials of Ridgeley feel it will pay the community to put a policewoman on duty. She will be given a period of training by Mayor Fryer and Police Chief Cornett.

A decision on the new policewoman will be made during a regular meeting of the Mayor and Council on February 6.

Store Official Held

WHEELING (AP) — A warrant has been served on the secretary-treasurer of the Steifel Corp., which operates the Steifel and Taylor Department Store here, charging him with conducting a going-out-of-business sale without a license. Wheeling adopted an ordinance on July 3, 1956, requiring all firms carrying on such sales to obtain a special license.

City Treasurer B. J. Kalleen swore out the warrant against David E. Kahn.

The enforcement officer who served the warrant said that it was the first of its kind in the history of the ordinance. He said that Kahn had obtained the required license Nov. 4, received an extension Dec. 10, but that this expired last Saturday.

Kahn put up bond of $106.

DOG BEST PASSENGER — Taxicab driver Donald Jaggers of Louisville, Ky., claims a mongrel dog was the best passenger he ever had. "Sugar," a mongrel dog owned by a "Mrs. Robinson of Chicago," started a six-hour drive last night when the owner hailed the cab and gave the driver $15 and a $5 tip and asked the cabbie to drive the dog around the city. Jaggers said the dog seemed to like the city parks and was well mannered. The dog indicated when she wanted out by scratching the driver's leg. Jaggers was glad when the ride was over since "Sugar" was about to become a mother. (AP Photofax)

Burning Pile Case Appeal Entered

CHARLESTON (AP) — John and Olga Khoc asked Supreme Court review today of an order denying Mr. and Mrs. Koch to a plea of damages in a $100,000 suit filed against Eastern Gas and Fuel Associates.

The action stemmed from alleged damage to the property of the Kochs which they said could be traced to "negligent" operation of a gob, or refuse pile at an EG&F mine in Paw Paw District of Marion county.

In December of 1956, the Supreme Court reversed a Marion County ruling which upheld a demurrer by Mr. and Mrs. Koch to a plea of damages in a $100,000 suit filed against Eastern Gas and Fuel Associates.

The Kochs' petition today said that point had been clarified by additional evidence showing they owned the real estate before establishment of the refuse pile by the mine. The burning gob pile is located about one-half mile from the Koch property.

Today's petition said the couple bought two parcels of land in 1937; constructed a 14-room, four-apartment building in 1939; added a garage apartment in 1942, and then constructed additional apartments in 1949.

YMCA Week Observed By Cumberland Unit

Central YMCA is joining observance of "YMCA Week" in honor of an organization which has more than four million members. The "Y" here was established in 1874 and like those first formed in 1844 has its own various clubs and organizations to serve all age groups into adulthood. Youngest members are from 6 to 8 years, organized with their fathers into the "Y" Indian Guide program. This father-son activity takes place in the boys' own homes. It is the youngest in length of time organized and fastest-growing group. Others are Gra-Y for 9 to 11 years; Junior Hi-Y, 12 to 14 years; Hi-Y, 15 to 17 years; Phalanx, up to 25 years; and Y's Men, over 25. Girls groups corresponding to these are organized in many communities but are not so numerous except in the high school age range where Tri-Hi-Y clubs are rapidly catching up to Hi-Y groups. Junior Gra-Y, Junior Tri-Hi-Y, Tri-Hi-Y and Gradale clubs are names used for the girls' groups. In organization, clubs have advisers to train members and participate in discussion. All registered clubs have a president, vice president, secretary, treasurer and some a sergeant-at-arms. The age range of the group has a lot to do with the activity of the group. Gra-Y boys are interested in crafts and trips. Junior Hi-Y groups are activity conscious with basketball playing a big part. Hi-Y or high school boys participate in youth and government, character training and discussions of boy-girl relations. One of the important contributions, as contrasted to many other youth agencies, is that progression of the club system is designed to reach a boy at any given age. Although it is not often that a boy enters the "Y" at infant age, age and continues Celacloud trademark on mattress through the entire system, it is frequently observed that a boy will go from one group to another or may drop out until some later program becomes interesting to him. The Hi-Y program has received more attention than any other club activity. This is because the youth and government Model Legislature, conducted at Annapolis is taken over by representatives of Hi-Y and Tri-Hi-Y clubs once a year. Their model legislation often captures the headlines of newspapers and challenges the senior lawmakers with honesty, clear-thinking and forthrightness that youth so frequently exhibits. The Cumberland YMCA has 14 Hi-Y and Tri-Hi-Y clubs established throughout the county in Fort Hill, Allegany, Beall, Bruce and Valley High Schools. A separate Tri-Hi-Y club is organized at the YMCA building and meets there regularly.

Firm Sued By Celanese On Contract

Celanese Corporation of America has filed suit for injunction and damages against Perfect Fit Products Manufacturing Company of 40 North Street, New York, charging that it violated a licensing agreement governing the use of the Celanese trademark Celacloud in mattress pads manufactured by Perfect Fit. Judge Arthur Markewich signed a temporary order in New York State Supreme Court last Friday restraining Perfect Fit from using the trademark Celacloud in connection with the sale and disposition of its products, and ordered the defendant to show cause why the injunction should not be continued. Celanese is also seeking $100,000 damages and a permanent injunction. The complaint alleges that Perfect Fit violated a contract with Celanese which provided that Perfect Fit would use only 100 per cent Type F Celanese acetate staple stuffing in mattress pads identified as being filled with Celacloud. According to the complaint, Perfect Fit used the dian Guide, age and continues Celacloud trademark on mattress through the entire system, it is frequently observed that a boy will go from one group to another or may drop out until some later program becomes interesting to him. The Hi-Y program has received more attention than any other club activity. This is because the youth and government Model Legislature, conducted at Annapolis is taken over by representatives of Hi-Y and Tri-Hi-Y clubs once a year. # First Girders Put In Place For New Bridge

The first two girders for the new Baltimore Street Bridge were set in place yesterday and the other six steel structures may be lifted into place today.

But Rex E. Dexter, resident engineer for the Corps of Engineers, explained that actual completion of the span is not expected until April or May.

He added that steel work of the bridge can be completed now but that good weather will be needed for certain phases of the span.

The superstructure of the span is being erected by the American Bridge Company under a sub-contract awarded by the Hazen and Zandvoort Construction Company.

Workers early yesterday morning began placing the shoes, or end bearings, on which the girders are placed and by late afternoon had two of the big girders in place and had bolted on some of the cross members.

The new bridge being built for the City of Cumberland will be wider but shorter than the reinforced concrete span it replaced.

The new bridge is being widened to conform with the rest of Baltimore Street but is shorter, due to channel revision at that point which will about double the capacity of the channel.

Construction of the bridge will be expedited, as other channel work is, to get as much as possible done before late spring, when high waters are expected.

Other work on the flood control project is progressing, Dexter said.

E. J. Albrecht Company crews were busy just above the B&O Viaduct jacking sections of pipe about eight feet beneath the Western Maryland Railway interchange bridge and are placing rip-rap on the Cumberland side of the stream, near the Potomac Edison sub-station.

The flood control work is going along well, according to Thomas E. Dickson, former project manager now attached to the North Atlantic Division of the Corps of Engineers.

Dickson, here yesterday on an inspection tour, said the project should be completed on schedule this year if the weather holds and high water does not hamper the work.

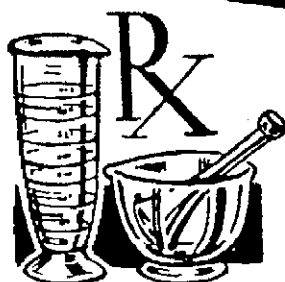

The torch of the Statue of Liberty goes on at the hour of official sunset and goes off at the hour of official sunrise.

Suit Filed For Child In Settlement Of Estate

A suit has been filed in Allegany County Circuit Court in behalf of a grandchild of a man who died in 1954 without leaving a will in which she seeks to regain one-seventh of the man's estate from his other heirs.

Victoria Edith Bittinger, a minor, through Bertha C. Lease, her mother and next friend, brought the suit against Luther A. Bittinger, Robert Lee Bittinger, William E. Bittinger, Evelyn L. Gafford, Marie T. Rowe and Bernard Nichols, guardian of Pauline Nichols, Clarence Nichols, Peggy Nichols and Mathilda Nichols.

The declaration, which was filed by Attorney Clarence Lippe, states that Adam L. Bittinger died June 9, 1954, without a will and leaving six children and five grandchildren. Attorneys William L. Wilson and James S. Getty were appointed administrators of the estate which totaled $4,104.60.

Frank C. Bittinger, one of the elder Bittingers' six children, left Allegany County in 1943 and has been unheard of since then. The minor plaintiff in this suit, the missing man's daughter, contends that she should have been given one-seventh of Adam Bittinger's estate, or $589.51, which instead was shared equally by the defendants as a result of an Orphans Court order.

As a result she seeks damages of $700 from the various defendants.

Also filed Tuesday was a damage suit and its compromise settlement for $1,385.25. Charles W. Kiser, an infant, by William B. Kiser and Betty M. Kiser, his parents and next friends, brought the suit against Agness D. Bartlett, Charles G. Bartlett and Howard A. Benson.

Young Kiser contends that he was a passenger in an automobile which was being driven by Benson west on U. S. Route 40 near its intersection with Naves Crossroad. At the same time Charles Bartlett was driving a car belonging to Agness Bartlett south on Christie Road. They collided in an accident last May 9, which Kiser contends was the fault of both drivers.

Court Says Bus Drivers Have Duty To Motorists

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—The Court of Day Co. as payment due on a Appeals says that bus drivers owe $23,000 contract for construction a duty to other motorists in the operation of a storm sewer in a subdivision. operation of their large and heavy vehicles.

The high court upheld a Baltimore Circuit Court verdict ordering the Baltimore Transit Co. to pay $3,000 each to two Baltimore women injured when a bus struck their car in the rear on April 9, 1956.

"In cases arising from collisions, the size and weight of such vehicles are important factors to be considered," the opinion said, "and the drivers thereof owe to other motorists the duty to take these elements into consideration in the operation of their vehicles."

Mrs. Ruby Mae Prinz, driver of the car, said the bus struck her car after she slowed down to avoid hitting a dog which had walked into the street. She and her passenger, Mrs. Floy Kirkpatrick, were injured.

In other opinions yesterday, the high court:

1. Upheld a Montgomery County Circuit Court judgment ordering the Shapiro Engineering Corp. to pay $12,400 to the Francis O. termination of damages due Slice.
2. Agreed with Henry W. Slice, a Prince Georges County liquor dealer, who said he has an exclusive right to sell liquor and beer for off-premises consumption in the Hillcrest Heights Shopping Center.

Slice, who trades as Modern Liquors, said a covenant in his lease with Carozza Properties Inc., owners of the shopping center, gave him an exclusive liquor license.

The high court agreed with Slice, reversed a circuit court ruling against the sale of liquor and beer by a restaurant located in the shopping center. The appellate judges also ordered a de-

Five Years Work Seen On Oak Wilt

Disease Found In 44 Counties Of West Virginia

By CHARLES R. LEWIS
CHARLESTON (AP)—The State Agriculture Department feels that as much as five years of additional, detailed survey work will be necessary to set up a complete program for control of oak wilt, already found in 44 of West Virginia's 55 counties.

A detailed report handed the current legislative session said that state and federal funds made possible the first 100-per cent aerial survey of the state in 1957, along with additional second coverage "better than any conducted during past years."

The Board of Public Works recommended a legislative appropriation of $40,000 for the next fiscal year for oak wilt eradication and control. A similar amount was provided for this year, and was supplemented by $20,000 in federal aid.

Oak wilt first was found in Monongalia County in July, 1951, although the department said the first infection in West Virginia occurred some time earlier. Localized air and ground scouting largely made up the control program from 1951 through 1954.

The first attempted statewide survey in 1955, set up by a special legislative appropriation, actually covered only about 50 per cent of West Virginia. Two partial surveys were completed in 1956, but statewide coverage was not generally attained until last year.

Actively wilting trees were found in 36 counties in 1957. Wirt, Jackson, Ritchie, Randolph and Clay were added to the list. No new trees were found in Calhoun, Gilmer, Jefferson, Pocahontas, Preston, Roane, Upshur and Wyoming, where the disease was charted earlier.

A total of 389 wilting trees was processed in 1957, with 307 of them in 682 new or previously unknown sites. A site is a circle with a 50-foot radius around a diseased tree or group of intermingled dead and wilting trees, each of which is with in 50 feet of another.

Processing of trees now involves a deep girdling technique in which a groove is cut around each and into the heartwood. The girdle causes the tree to die with resultant death also for oak wilt organisms living in sapwood near the bark.

Each tree processed is numbered and posted. There are regulations dealing with the cutting of trees, and the department has obtained cooperation from sawmills and others leading to the burning of bark from diseased trees eventually going into lumber.

Technicians have found that if they can reach and girdle infected trees by early August, chances for controlling the spread of the oak wilt organisms are improved.

In 1954, the treatment involved cutting and burning infected trees, as well as burning dead trees and—in a few cases—of all compatible oaks within the site.

Five of 91 new sites, or 5.4 per cent, treated in that way continued active in 1955. Examinations in 1956 and 1957 showed that six other sites produced newly infected trees. That meant an 11-per cent breakover in the areas treated in 1954.

That figure was on a basis of three years of examination as against two in which the deep girdle approach was used. The department said that, perhaps significantly, the third year contributed only one additional site.

Department personnel managed to visit last year 1,024, or about 60 per cent, of 1,713 old oak wilt sites found in the 1951-56 period. Most of the old sites also were checked several times by air or from nearby roadsides.

Some of the larger sites located in 1957 were in counties where active disease had been considered light in past years. A few new hot spots had 50 or more dead trees. One new one in Morgan County had five wilting trees interspersed among 53 dead ones.

The Agriculture Department found as a bright spot in the overall oak wilt picture the fact that the total number of sites found dropped appreciably, by 23 per cent, in 1957 although a much more intensive survey program was conducted.

A statistical summary showed 2,305 oak wilt sites and 3,263 trees listed for the 1951-57 period. The new sites, totaling 682, in 1957 compared with 890 in 1956.

The number of sites found in Hampshire, Mineral and Pendleton counties dropped in 1957 for the second straight year. The North Fork watershed in Pendleton continued a downward trend set some four years ago to indicate a probable success of control procedures there.

SON OF 10-YEAR-OLD MOTHER—Nurse Joan Hall of St. Elizabeth's Roman Catholic Hospital holds son born to a 10-year-old girl in San Francisco yesterday. Dr. Chester L. Cooley, chief of the hospital medical staff, supervised a team of four doctors who performed the operation. He said he believed the girl was the youngest to give birth to a child in the medical history of the United States, although the youngest in history was a 5½-year-old Peruvian girl. "She's just a child and doesn't know exactly what has happened," Dr. Cooley said.

Two Mothers Released For Shoplifting

BALTIMORE — Two women, one the mother of five children and foster mother of nine more and the other the mother of eight, have been placed on probation on shoplifting charges.

Judge Reuben Oppenheimer yesterday granted the release on two years probation to Mrs. Dorothy Mae Conrad, 36, and Mrs. Gloria Faith Loft, 34. Both are from Maryland. They were arrested last Dec. 13 and charged with taking some 275 different items valued at $297 from five department stores.

Robert J. Callanan, counsel for Mrs. Conrad, said she was caring for nine children for the Department of Public Welfare, in addition to her own family, at the time of her arrest. Mrs. Conrad is being treated for kleptomania, Callanan said, and does not recall taking the articles.

BEACHVILLE, Md. — Four calls until shortly before the roof of a two-story structure collapsed yesterday while his mother called frantically from outside their flaming home. The mother said she had left the boy alone for about 10 minutes to visit a neighbor, and returned to find the house in flames. Mrs. William Carroll, hysterical and in a state of shock, told firemen smoke and flames blocked her repeated attempts to get inside the house. ## Murphy Store Gives Details On Building

Expansion of Quarters Undertaken Because Of Faith In City

Faith in the City of Cumberland and the future of its downtown shopping district is reflected in the remodeling and construction project undertaken here by the G. C. Murphy Company, officials of the firm observed today.

Not only are the company's present retail facilities being completely renovated, but a new building is to be erected at the corner of Baltimore and George streets, which will be added to the present store.

When completed, the store will have a total sales area of 38,000 square feet, representing an increase of more than 50 per cent over its present size, with a frontage of 140 feet on Baltimore Street.

Came Here In 1933

The Murphy Company first entered the business life of the city in 1933, when The McMullen Brothers Department Store, a firm of long standing in the community, decided to retire from the retail field and leased their building to Murphy for a period of 25 years.

A new long term lease has just been negotiated for the properties owned by the McMullen heirs. The present store, having a frontage of 98 feet on Baltimore Street and extending to a depth of 180 feet, will have first and second sales floors as at present.

New lighting will be installed as well as an escalator to serve the second floor sales area. New fixtures are in the program as well as other conveniences for the shopping public.

Plan New Front

The new building to be erected will front 42 feet on Baltimore Street and extend to a depth of 180 feet along George Street. When annexed to the present store it will provide a sales floor measuring 140 feet by 180 feet, the largest in the entire Cumberland area.

A new front will be installed in the present building to match the new building to be erected and will employ the latest design in vision windows, making it possible for passersby to see into the main sales floor.

Other remodeling features will include extension of the present air conditioning facilities, an enlarged snack bar, modern comfort rooms and other features presently in the planning stage. A power conveyor for the transporting of merchandise between floors will also be installed.

The general contract has been awarded to Charles R. Scrivener Company of Baltimore, and actual work began on the project on Monday. It is contemplated that all work will be completed and the enlarged store will be ready for opening in the late summer or early fall.

Morning Fire Routs Family From Home

A West Side family of 15 children was forced from their home this morning when fire engulfed the upstairs section of the residence.

Firemen from Central Station and West Side answered the two-alarm blaze at 10:23 a. m., and West Side firemen remained on the scene until noon.

Firemen said the blaze started on the second floor of the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Bates, 303 Paca Street, the parents of 15 children, mostly school age.

The family was forced to carry out most of the furniture from the second floor.

The blaze started in a back bedroom of the two-story frame building, and firemen were able to confine the blaze to the one room. A considerable amount of clothing was destroyed.

The actual cause of the fire could not be determined, but it was believed to have started in a mattress on one of the beds.

Some water damage was caused to the first floor of the building, and intense heat charred a section of the roof.

One of the Bates children was asleep in the room at the time of the blaze, and was carried out by his sister, Carol Bates.

Firemen said today's blaze was the second at the home in the past couple of months. The first blaze involved a fue fire.

Sewer Gas Used For Treatment

Use of sewer gas to heat the new $2,000,000 sewage treatment plant is cited in the first monthly report of plant operations by Street Commissioner William H. Buchholz.

Buchholz told the Mayor and Council Monday that 1,000 cubic feet of sewer gas was used for heating in December. This, he said, represented a considerable savings when compared rate-wise with natural gas consumption in other buildings.

The report on the first full month of uninterrupted operation of the plant also listed average sewage flow at 7,387,806 gallons daily.

Oldtown Youth On Probation

A 14-year-old Oldtown boy was placed on probation today in Juvenile Court after being found guilty of being a delinquent minor.

He was apprehended after he came to the Associated Charities office here and obtained a check for $25. After cashing the check the boy purchased a jacket and then spent the rest of the money.

In another case this morning a 14-year-old local boy was paroled for six months.

Magistrate Fred H. Anderson said the boy stole an automobile last week on Columbia Street, drove around the block and smashed into two parked cars, and left the scene of the accident.

He was later apprehended by City Police.

Rain Or Snow Return Visit Is Expected

Secondary Roads Reported Slippery In Garrett County

After a pleasant day, the district is in for some rain or snow tomorrow afternoon, the Weather Bureau said in its report for Allegany, Garrett and Washington counties.

Garrett County yesterday and last night got from one to two inches of new snow, bringing the accumulation on the ground from four to six inches. There was also some rain in the westernmost county of the state.

Secondary roads, according to officials of the State Department of Forests and Parks, were extremely slippery today in that section.

The State Roads Commission reported that the main highways in the northern part of the county were only ten per cent bare.

In the southern part, all roads were covered, the SRC said. However, east of Big Savage Mountain the highways were bare.

Temperatures this morning got down to 25 at Oakland and Accident, 22 at Big Savage, 23 at New Germany, 32 at Cumberland and 32 at Town Hill.

The forecast says there is to be some cloudiness tonight with the low between 18 and 25 degrees in this end of the state. Tomorrow is to be mostly cloudy, and slightly cooler with rain or snow beginning in the afternoon.

State Income Tax Aid Set For Region

The itinerary for representatives of the office of the state comptroller that will be followed in assisting residents in the preparation of their 1957 state income tax returns has been announced by J. Millard Tawes, comptroller.

The Cumberland office will be headquarters for the Allegany and Garrett County visits, according to Edward V. Welsh, manager, who said the assistance program will begin Monday, February 10.

On that day, Welsh said, his office will have a representative at the Garrett County Courthouse, Oakland, for residents of that area.

Other dates for visits, and communities where the comptroller aides will be located, are: February 13-14, City Building in Westernport; February 17, First National Bank, Barton; February 18, Liberty Trust Company, Lonaconing; February 19-20, Fidelity Savings Bank, Frostburg, and February 21 to March 8, Devon Club, Luke.

The state income tax headquarters at 9 Market Street is open Monday through Friday, Welsh explained, and extra representatives will be on hand to assist taxpayers from March 11 to April 15 — the deadline for filing returns.

Grave Digger Dies On Job In Cemetery

A 50-year-old Mineral County laborer, waiting to fill in a grave following services for a younger man, was fatally stricken yesterday afternoon in Evans Cemetery at Hartmansville.

Oscar Harold Jackson, of Elk Garden, collapsed near the grave which he had dug and died shortly afterward in the Sharpless Funeral Home (Blaine, W. Va.) in hearses which transported the body of James R. Baker, 73, Hartmansville, to the cemetery.

Jackson was the second member of his family to die this month. A brother, William, succumbed January 2.

Born October 9, 1907 in Elk Garden, Jackson was a son of the late George F. and Julia Ann (Coffman) Jackson. Survivors include a sister, Mrs. Irene Plyler, Arlington, Va., and a brother, Edwin Jackson, Elk Garden. He was unmarried.

The body is at the home of his sister-in-law, Mrs. Violet Jackson, Elk Garden. Services will be conducted Saturday at 2 p. m. in Grace Methodist Church there by Rev. Harry Young, pastor. Burial will take place in Nethken Hill Cemetery, Elk Garden.

Campaigning By Democrats Progressing

Tawes Cites Main Elements Of Party Have Joined Forces

BALTIMORE — The four-man Tawes ticket in Maryland's Democratic primary made its television debut over a four-station network last night, while opponents continued their campaigns in person.

Speaking on a 15-minute program, J. Millard Tawes claimed a "first" in his campaign for nomination to the governor's chair.

"For the first time in many years, the principal elements in the Democratic party have come together before, not after, the primary election," he said.

Credits Running Mates

Among those most responsible for this, he added, were his running mates, who appeared on the show with him — Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro of Baltimore, candidate in the senatorial primary; State Sen. Louis L. Goldstein of Calvert County, candidate to succeed Tawes as comptroller, and Atty. Gen. C. Ferdinand Sybert, seeking renomination.

Meanwhile, two of D'Alesandro's opponents, James Bruce and George P. Mahoney, took their campaigns to East Baltimore and the Eastern Shore, respectively.

Bruce addressed the 11th Ward Democratic Club, whose leaders have endorsed everyone on the Tawes ticket except D'Alesandro.

Three of these club leaders — Dels. Joseph V. Mach and Thomas H. Hedrick and John Valis — reiterated last night that their group, one of the major factions in the Second Legislative District, will not retract its snub of the mayor.

In all probability, they added, it will endorse Bruce or Mahoney for the senatorial nomination.

Call For Unity

The Tawes ticket telecast was carried by two stations in Baltimore, one in Washington and one in Salisbury.

Tawes introduced D'Alesandro, Sybert and Goldstein as men who had given "solid proof of a willingness to put aside personal ambition for the good of the party."

Any one of them, he added, "has had the power — if he chose — to plunge the Democratic party into the kind of hopeless primary which has been so disastrous to us in the past." All three of his running mates had at one time been mentioned as possible contenders for the gubernatorial nomination and D'Alesandro even had filed as a candidate in that slot before withdrawing Jan. 9 and switching to the senate race as Tawes' running mate.

Tawes and the others on the ticket called on rank-and-file Democrats to follow their example of unity. They said they would have more to say about campaign issues later.

Boy Sentenced By Magistrate

A 16-year-old local boy was sentenced to the Maryland Training School for Boys this morning in Juvenile Court.

Juvenile Magistrate Fred H. Anderson sentenced the youth after finding him guilty of being a delinquent minor.

The boy, along with a 14-year-old boy, was nabbed last week by City Police as they were going door-to-door on Washington Street collecting money for the construction of a new swimming pool at Central YMCA.

Police said the boys carried a cigar box and were nabbed in the 400 block of Washington Street. They had $1.39 in the box at the time of the arrest.

The 14-year-old boy was placed on probation for one year.

Magistrate Anderson said the mother of the boy sentenced to the training school indicated she would appeal the sentence.

Mineral Jurist Imposes Parole

Judge Ernest A. See of Mineral County Circuit Court yesterday suspended a prison sentence against Alvin Eugene Losh, who City Police was indicted in 1954 on a robbery charge, and placed Losh under a three-year parole.

Losh had been jointly indicted with William Kuhn, who is now in the West Virginia penitentiary after violating terms of parole imposed previously by Judge See. Court attaches said James Clarence Cox, indicted on an arson charge, would not be tried during the January term of court. Cox, attaches said, has been in a mental institution since committing the offense against a neighbor.

Fiscal Tax Collections In City High

Report By Auditor Shows 91 1/2 Per Cent Of Levy Collected

The City of Cumberland collected 91 1/2 per cent of its 1957-58 tax levy during the first six months of the fiscal year, according to a report released by Arthur B. Gibson, city auditor.

The tax levy was for $1,207,630, and $1,103,340.88 was collected through December 31, the report reveals. Still uncollected is $104,289.12.

Gibson's figures also show that $1,497,704.60 of the total levy of $2,005,860 was collected in the six-month period, the amount representing 74 1/2 per cent of the total. The balance yet to be collected is $508,155.40.

Expenditures for city operations were kept well within 50 per cent for the half-year period, a breakdown of the report shows.

City spending totaled $724,888.32, the expenditure representing 43 1/2 per cent of the $1,663,326.75 appropriated for municipal operations. The balance on hand totals $938,438.43, according to the city auditor.

The police and fire department had the greatest expenditures for the half-year, Gibson reveals, the Police Department having expended $138,024.39, and the Fire Department, $117,926.51. The police appropriation was for $273,000, and a balance of $134,975.61 is on hand. The Fire Department appropriation was for $263,200, and a balance of $150,273.49 remains.

Maintenance of streets and alleys resulted in an expenditure of $96,664.02 during the six-month period, according to the city auditor's report. A balance of $90,355.92 remains from the $187,000 appropriation for this service.

The report also shows expenditures totaling $17,198.02 in sewage treatment plant operations for the half-year period, and the balance on hand as of December 31 was $130,801.98.

Variety Show Cast Selected

The participants have been listed for the variety show to be sponsored by Centre Street School Parent-Teacher Association at the school Wednesday, January 28, and Thursday, January 29.

The accompanist will be Miss Bertie Rank.

Celanese Making New Rug Staple

Celanese Corporation of America has disclosed a process for twist setting of acetate staple fiber in rugs and carpets and at the same time said that license agreements are being negotiated with certain manufacturers for use of the process.

The names were not disclosed pending completion of agreements.

The twists are set in hot water, the company said, without loss of texture or frizzle effect, and carpets woven in the gray may be inventoried in that state and piece dyed as market demand warrants.

Licenses will involve use of the Celanese Corporation trademark "Celanar" for acetate staple with properties for use in rugs and carpets. Under the terms of license samples of finished carpets will be submitted periodically to Celanese for evaluation.

Previously, the company states, twist set carpets have principally been confined to wool and nylon. In rugs and carpets it is held the new fiber provides permanent texture, resistance to crushing and matting, improved resiliency and cleanability.

Schools And Roads Given Top Attention

President Bean Says Early Decisions Should Be Made

CHARLESTON (AP)—Senate Democrats and Republicans met in pre-session conferences today in an attempt to hammer out programs for roads, schools and the state medical center.

Both House and Senate were scheduled to reconvene at 2 p. m. after a one-day recess for the funeral of U. S. Senator Matthew M. Neely (D-W.Va.).

The Senate caucuses, set for 10 a. m., promised to run until at least noon. Speaker W. K. Flannery (D-Louis.) said House Democrats probably would caucus after today's session.

Need For Decision

Senate President Bean (D-Harv.) emphasized the need for an early decision on road and school problems in particular, if the Senate hopes to get its budget bill to the floor soon.

He indicated that there was virtually no sentiment among Senate Democrats in favor of a West Virginia University bond proposal designed to provide immediate money for contractors' bills at the Medical Center's teaching hospital.

The proposal would involve sale by a private corporation of up to five million dollars worth of 10-year, 4 percent bonds to provide money to meet construction costs.

Contractors would assign their rights to the corporation upon payment of the bills, and the bonds in turn would be retired as revenue from the state pop tax and certain other sources accumulated in the coming years.

New Tax Measures

The Senate Democratic leadership has indicated that sentiment there is for some direct means of meeting the construction cost squeeze, presumably by new tax measures.

By contrast, the House Democratic leadership leans toward the bonding proposal, primarily because of a feeling that any new tax revenues provided for the medical center problem could result in fewer possibilities for any money needed for roads and schools.

The House leadership also has been talking in terms of possibly as much as $50 more a month for public school teachers' salaries, but there has been no indication yet of any crystallized Senate feeling toward more aid for schools.

Both the House and Senate majorities are approaching the road program with the prime purpose of providing any revenues which might be needed to safeguard the state from losses in federal aid.

Resolutions Up

Above that possible need, there has been little so far to indicate that the Legislature will provide anything for roads.

The Senate had under the category of unfinished business today possible action on eight Senate and House resolutions, several of which involve requests for permission to introduce bills involving items outside the call for the present legislative session.

The Senate leadership has had the whole resolutions matter under study for the past few days, with the general sentiment apparently against consideration of anything at this session beyond items in the governor's call or of an emergency nature.

The Senate, which will institute a special calendar next Monday to expedite consideration of major items, had up for passage today a bill to set up a separate sinking fund for revenue to retire Korean veterans bonus bonds.

Bond specialists have advised that a fund separate from that for World War I and World War II bonus programs might be a necessary requirement if the state wished to offer on the open market Korean bonus bonds it currently is selling to its own investment funds.

Film To Feature Youth Rally Here

A film, "Time and Eternity," will be shown at the Tri-State Youth for Christ rally Saturday at 7:45 p. m. at the Salvation Army Citadel.

The film was produced in color at the Moody Bible Institute of Science.

Petroleum shipments constitute one-half of Texas' total rail tonnage.

The Charleston Daily Mail said it had learned Randolph would be a candidate.

He would be the first seeking the remaining term of the late Sen. Neely. He served in the House of Representatives from the state's 2nd Congressional District from 1933 through 1947.

He was elected delegate-at-large to the Democratic national conventions of 1942, 1952 and 1956. Randolph, 56, is a former newspaperman and member of the Davis and Elkins College faculty.

Gov. Underwood must appoint a successor to Neely until the general election Nov. 4 produces a successor to serve the unexpired term.

Sen. Chapman Revercomb (R-WVa) is the incumbent for the morning, or six-year term which will be decided next fall. Rep. Robert C. Byrd (D-WVa) has already filed as a candidate for that Senate post.

Army Passes Bridge Plan

BALTIMORE (AP) — Army engineers have okayed construction of a fixed-highway bridge to carry U. S. 13 over the Pocomoke River if its clearance is 35 feet instead of the originally proposed 25 feet.

After learning of the engineers' approval the State Roads Commission yesterday scheduled a meeting for tomorrow with Pocomoke City area residents interested in the bridge. The session will be held at 2 p. m. in Baltimore.

Officials from Pocomoke City, Snow Hill and other communities in Worcester County had protested original plans for the bridge.

Scientist Says No Moon Landing Now

BALTIMORE (AP) — Dr. Fred S. Singer, professor of physics at the University of Maryland and a rocket authority, says it will be impossible to land men on the moon for some time to come.

In a speech here last night, Singer said it might be feasible to send a manned ship around the moon using present type rockets but it would not be possible to land the ship there.

As soon as the re-entry problem is solved, a man will be sent up into space, the professor said. He predicted that within one year this country will have rockets able to orbit the earth with a 2,000-pound payload. In an additional year or so America will have the ability to predict the weather and seasonal climatic conditions months in advance through use of these rockets, Singer said.

The professor said the Russian satellite experiments have little intrinsic military use. It is not practical to bomb the earth from a satellite, Singer said. "It is much easier to blow things up from down here."

Crater-shaped wallows still scar the plains and prairies of the American West, formed when 60 million bison roamed the continent.

Hearts On Valentine's Table

By CECILY BROWNSTONE

Associated Press Food Editor

Put your hearts on the table on Valentine's Day. Nowadays various sizes of cookie cutters, cake pans and salad molds come heart-shaped, all ready for use in baking or filling.

To grace a buffet supper party table and beguile your guests, you might like a heart-shaped potato salad with a scarlet pimiento arrow. Directions for making this salad follow, but if you haven't a pan of the size and shape called for, use a bowl for molding and garnish with the arrow. Or spangle the top of the salad after it is turned out with pimiento cut out with a tiny heart-shaped cutter.

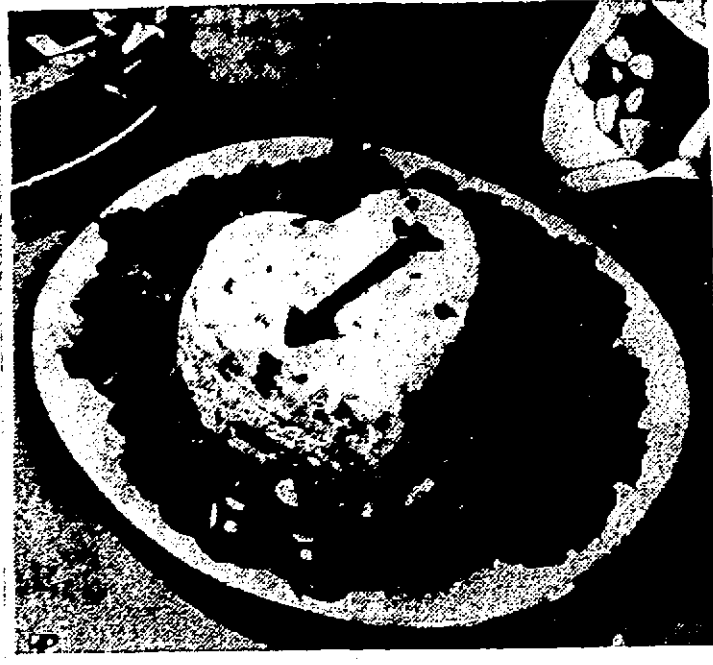

What to serve with the salad? We suggest smorgasbord fixings and here are dishes from which to choose.

Another salad — this time of marinated herring fillets, diced apple, cooked beets, celery and dill pickle.

Stuffed hard-cooked eggs with anchovy fillets added to their filling and caper-rolled anchovies used as a garnish.

Smoked fish such as eel, salmon or sardines. The salmon loaves (3 pounds), 1/2 cup real should be accompanied by a cruet mayonnaise, 1 cup finely diced of olive oil and a tiny bowl of capers. The sardines will look pretty undisturbed in their open spoon white pepper, minced can, but ring the container with onion, 2 cups coarsely ground parsley. Lobster and shrimp also are appropriate served with lemon wedges.

Lamb Chops Sport Spicy Tart Topping

Here's a stylish meat serving priced just right for budget-wise homemakers. The meat cut in vogue in this recipe is lamb shoulder chops, a less-demanded cut. But in this case the chops are crowned by a colorful combination — an onion and lemon slice surrounded by a dainty green pepper ring.

For this recipe, braising is the method of meat cookery used, even though all lamb chops are tender and can be prepared by broiling.

The braising method of meat cookery is used to add variety in the preparation of the chops. Tomato juice instead of water is used as the braising liquid. Reba Staggs, home economist, emphasizes that when braising any type of meat cut, the liquid should never reach the boiling point, but cook slowly to be at its best.

Lamb Chops—Tart Topping
6 lamb shoulder chops, cut 1/2 to 1 inch thick
1 cup lard or drippings
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
6 onion slices
6 lemon slices
6 green pepper rings
1/2 cup tomato juice

Brown chops slowly in lard or drippings. Pour off drippings. Season. Top each chop with an onion slice, a lemon slice and a green pepper ring. Pour tomato juice over chops. Cover tightly and cook in a slow oven (300° F.) or simmer on top of range for 45 minutes, or until done. Yield: 6 servings.

SAVORY HOT GREEN BEANS

Ingredients: 1 can (about 1 pound) French-sliced green snap beans, 2 tablespoons butter or margarine, 2 tablespoons flour, 1 chicken bouillon cube, 1 teaspoon sugar, 1 tablespoon lemon juice.

Method: Drain beans well in a strainer over a measure. You will need one cup bean liquid; if there is not enough add water to make this amount. Melt butter in a medium-sized saucepan over low heat; stir in flour. Add 1 cup bean liquid and bouillon cube; stir over moderately low heat until boiling and thickened, making sure bouillon cube dissolves. Stir in sugar and lemon juice; add drained green beans. Reheat. Makes 4 servings.

What To Eat? Hearty Meat And Macaroni

If the breadwinner of your family is a man that enjoys a meal planned around meat and potatoes, serve him a Meat and Macaroni Loaf. It's a meal entrée which will satisfy even the heartiest appetite.

Featured in this meat and macaroni put-together are ground beef, ground pork and macaroni.

Reba Staggs, an expert in the field of meat and meat cookery, adds that this recipe will provide from 6 to 8 servings. The seasonings found in this loaf, which will undoubtedly please the gentlemen, include onion, parsley, mustard and Worcestershire sauce.

Meat and Macaroni Loaf

- 1/2 pound ground beef
- 1 pound bulk pork sausage
- 1/2 cup uncooked elbow macaroni
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 2 tablespoons finely chopped onion
- 2 tablespoons finely chopped parsley
- 1 teaspoon dry mustard
- 2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
- 2 eggs, beaten

Cook macaroni in unsalted water. Combine ground beef, sausage, salt, onion and parsley. Blend the mustard and Worcestershire sauce; sprinkle over meat mixture; add eggs and mix well. Add cooked macaroni. Mix lightly and turn into a greased 1 1/2-quart loaf pan. Bake in a moderate oven (350° F.) for 1 to 1 1/2 hours. Yield: 6 to 8 servings.

Luncheon Meat Appetizers

To make luncheon meat rib-bon appetizers—Cut the 12-ounce loaf of meat into twelve thin slices. Spread meat with a combination of one package (3 ounces) cream cheese and one tablespoon drained horseradish. Stack three of the meat slices together; repeat. Chill, and at serving time cut each stack in 1/4-inch squares. Insert toothpick into each appetizer and top with piece of pickle.

Rhubarb Plus Pork Join To Please Palate

Home-style cooking that has a gourmet look and the taste of superb cuisine... that's Pork Chop-Rhubarb Casserole.

This masterful creation brings either rib or loin pork chops into the circle of honor.

Reba Staggs home economist and an authority on meat cookery, points out that pork is now plentiful which means it's a good buy. Penny-wise homemakers will be interested in that. Pork has also been acclaimed by researchers and medical people as a good meat choice for breakfast, lunch or dinner. Even weight-watchers are encouraged.

Potatoes From Tube

Handy with a decorating tube? You can use it to force hot mashed sweet potatoes over the top of creamed chicken and have a pie! Bake in a hot oven.

to include this meat in their menu pattern. The flavors of the pork and rhubarb blend to give this creation A-1 classification.

Pork Chop-Rhubarb Casserole

- 6 pork loin or rib chops, cut 1/2 to 1 inch thick
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon pepper
- 2 1-pound packages frozen rhubarb, defrosted
- 2 cups soft bread crumbs
- 1/4 cup melted butter or margarine
- 1/2 cup brown sugar, firmly packed
- 2 tablespoons flour
- 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
- 4 teaspoons lemon juice

Brown chops in frying-pan. Pour off drippings. Season with salt and pepper. Drain rhubarb. Mix toasted bread crumbs and butter or margarine. Combine sugar, flour, cinnamon, lemon juice and rhubarb. Place half of crumbs in bottom of a large casserole, arrange chops on rhubarb. Place remaining rhubarb on chops. Cover lightly and bake in a moderate oven (350° F.) for 40 minutes. Remove cover and top with remaining crumbs. Bake 10 minutes longer. Yield: 6 servings.

Banana Batter Used On French Toast

Something different for breakfast is Banana French Toast. The difference is that mashed bananas are right in the batter dip that the bread undergoes before its trip to the frying pan. Use fully ripe bananas, yellow peel flecked with brown.

Beef And Pork Featured
As Other Meats Higher

By The Associated Press

Supermarket meat men, battling what one called "the roughest month to six weeks" in memory, turned to the old standby beef and pork this week in an attempt to find an attractive meat bargain.

They are featuring pot roast, rib roast, steak, chuck and round roasts of beef and a variety of pork cuts. Beef and pork prices are comparatively high, but other meats are even more so.

Veal chops, for example, are selling for $1.10 a pound in the New York metropolitan area. Leg of lamb is reported 2 to 4 cents a pound more expensive in some sections and frying chickens are 4 to 10 cents a pound higher in many areas.

Wholesale Prices Rise

Housewives found little comfort in cost of living figures for December, which showed food prices up one-tenth of one per cent. Nor was there any encouragement in the word that wholesale food prices this week rose for the fourth straight week.

Some Eastern chains are trying to win the price battle by offering turkeys, which are in good supply. Elsewhere stores attempt to take the housewife's mind off her troubles with such unusual offerings as ducklings, spare ribs and jumbo shrimp.

Best buy in vegetables is potatoes, although indications are the starchy staple may get expensive in the months ahead. Spuds from last fall's storage crops are running low and the winter crop is expected to be 16 per cent lower than last year because of bad weather and acreage cuts.

Good buys also include broccoli, onions, iceberg lettuce, celery, cabbage, carrots, sweet potatoes, spinach, kale and collards. Onions and lettuce are edging upward. Cabbage from the fall storage crop also is getting higher, but tender new cabbage from Southern fields is starting to come to market in good volume.

Apples Best Fruit Buy

Cauliflower and peas are moderately priced, while tomatoes are moderate to high and tend toward irregular quality. High prices and low supplies prevail for beans, eggplant, cucumbers, squash, radishes, peppers and corn. Cucumbers are down slightly.

Apples still rate as the best fruit buy, although oranges and grapefruit are a little lower. Tangerines head upward in price again. Avocados are attractively priced for those who fancy them and limes still are a good buy.

Barbecued In Tasty Recipe

There's always room in your file of recipe ideas for just one more... this one is Barbecued Veal Cutlets.

Veal, being very mild in flavor, makes an excellent combination with barbecue sauce. Barbecued meat, depending on the amount of seasonings, has wide appeal among oldsters and youngsters.

Reba Staggs, home economist, explains that veal, being young beef, provides cuts that are actually one-half the size of comparable beef cuts. Because of the young age at which these animals are marketed. The resulting veal cuts have very little fat. As a result, fat is usually added when roasting a veal roast. This may be in the form of bacon strips. Also boned and rolled veal roasts often have a fat covering wrapped around the meat by the retailer. In preparing chops, cutlets and steaks, it is best if they are braised since the veal will be more tender and juicy by the time it is cooked to the well-done stage.

4 tablespoons lard or drippings
3 tablespoons soy sauce
3 tablespoons catchup

Special Occasion?

Try Crab Souffle

This is one to make from pantry shelf staples for unexpected guests. And it's worthy of a special occasion.

Drain a can of crabmeat and pick meat to pieces. Blend together over heat a tablespoon each of butter or margarine, and flour; stir in a cup of milk to make a cream sauce. Remove from heat. Finish with a dash of lemon juice and a little salt. Stir in the crabmeat. Add, little by little, the beaten yolks of 3 eggs, stirring carefully so that the mixture doesn't curdle. Cook, stirring, over low heat till thickened. Let cool.

Beat 3 egg whites till stiff, fold lightly into mixture. Pour into an ungreased baking dish and set in a 375 F. oven. Cook for 25 to 30 minutes, or till souffle is firm.

Method: Have chicken cut into 10 pieces. Clean in cold water and drain lightly. Stir biscuit mix, salt, pepper, curry powder and paprika together thoroughly on a piece of waxed paper. Dip chicken pieces in mixture, coating on all sides. Melt butter in a baking pan (about 9 by 13 by 2 inches) in a hot (425 degrees) oven. Arrange chicken pieces in butter in single layer, skin side down. Bake in hot oven 45 minutes. Turn chicken so it is skin side up. Continue to bake in hot oven another 15 minutes or until tender. Remove chicken. Gravy may be made from drippings in pan with stock (made from chicken giblets and wing tips). Makes 4 servings.

Rabies Danger Continues To Mount In Hardy County

MOOREFIELD — Evidence of the highly mounting rabies danger in Hardy County was shown recently when a brood sow on the farm of Sloan Parsons killed a gray fox in a hog house.

Parsons was awakened at daybreak by noise and before he reached the hog house the commotion subsided. He found the fox dead in a section of the shed which contained seven brood sows and 48 pigs. The hog house is of a commercial type, 24 by 40 feet, and divided into sections. The fox evidently entered a small trap door and passed through a section of the house containing 20 pigs before it reached the area occupied by the brood sow and a litter of pigs.

The sow tore down an eight-inch oak board to reach the fox and was bitten in the attempt to kill the animal.

The fox was taken to the Page County Laboratory in Virginia by Parsons, and he was notified later in the evening that the fox was rabid. The sow is now being treated by Parsons and a local veterinarian.

Foxes are numerous in many parts of the county and in the South Fork section they have been attacking farm animals.

Ernest See has been having trouble with foxes entering his hog house and Dolph Kuykendall had a dog bitten when it rushed a fox attacking a cow. Miss Elsie Wolfe and her sisters, who live on Middle Mountain, have had foxes scratching on the house door trying to enter. They counted five on a hillside near the house last Sunday.

Money is not available with either the county court or the State Conservation Commission to pay bounties on foxes. The commission stated that it will send a representative here to hold public meetings to teach citizens the proper methods of trapping and killing foxes.

A program of inoculating dogs against rabies was started several years ago by the commission during another rabies outbreak. Interest ran high in the program during its first year, but response has been rather slow during the past several years.

Urgent Need For Factory Pledges Told

FROSTBURG — An appeal was made yesterday to 61 persons who have not yet fulfilled their pledges to buy stock in the Industrial Promotion Company for construction of the new underground plant.

According to David Willett, a total of $8,960 is still unpaid and the money is needed immediately to meet bills for materials. If current bills for materials can be paid within the next few days, two per cent in discounts can be saved, he said.

Howard Shuman, chairman, said an effort is to be made to get this balance of the campaign fund collected at once, and he hopes that those who made pledges will meet them promptly.

The community pledged a total of $60,000 in a drive to bring the plant to Frostburg, he said, and most of the pledges have been converted to cash and stock certificates delivered.

Work on the building has progressed steadily despite cold weather, and it will be completed and occupied on schedule, thus bringing a new and regular payroll to Frostburg.

Buck Party Planned

KEYSER — Plans were formulated this week at a meeting of Mayor Richard E. Romig and Council with Baltimore and Ohio Railroad officials to alleviate traffic congestion caused by the frequent and long blocking of the Main Street crossing of the B&O here.

Attending the conference were T. J. Klauenberg, superintendent of the B&O's Cumberland Division; W. W. Frey, local trainmaster; F. J. Crockett, superintendent of the Keyser car shops; P. A. Butts, general roundhouse foreman; A. R. Tenney, road foreman of engines; Harland Ruder, president of the Keyser-Mineral County Chamber of Commerce; George R. Petras, manager of the Keyser plant of Emerson-Pryne and Dakin Morehouse, owner of the Keyser Cement Products Company.

The results of the conference were assurances from the railroad officials that the B&O would attempt to have coal trains moving out of Keyser to be made up at other than peak hours, such as when children are going to and from school and employees at industries north of the tracks are going to and from work.

Railroad officials said every attempt would be made to keep the crossing from being blocked for more than 25 minutes at any one time, and added that train crews would be instructed to be more cooperative in keeping the crossing open.

Another practice that Klauenberg said would be stopped would be that of closing up an outgoing coal train before traffic could clear the crossing when a west-bound train was pulling into the yards from the opposite direction.

Some of those at the conference quoted Klauenberg as saying he was "amazed" to learn the coal trains were being coupled back up before another train on the westbound tracks had cleared the crossing.

City officials said the B&O representatives were "very cooperative" and seemed anxious to alleviate the condition. Ironically, during the conference, the Main Street crossing was blocked for 40 minutes.

To Aid Taxpayers

S. Vernon Pierce, group supervisor of the Internal Revenue Service, announces that assistance will be rendered to taxpayers at the Keyser office of the Internal Revenue Service, located in the Mineral county Court House, on the following dates: Monday, February 10; Monday, February 17; Tuesday, April 8 and Tuesday, April 15.

Pierce states the assistance this year will be designed to help the greatest possible number of taxpayers in the shortest possible time. A revenue officer will be on duty at the Keyser office on the above dates to answer questions, guide taxpayers in group sessions who can to a great degree make their own returns with a little assistance in helping them over the "rough spots" in their problems.

Taxpayers who merely need advice on specific problems are asked where possible to use the telephone on the above dates in presenting their questions. This method is faster and will aid in reducing crowded conditions on the above assistance days.

Pierce states it is the aim of the Internal Revenue Service to give the fullest possible aid to taxpayers to enable them to file accurate and complete returns. To do so, the taxpayer's cooperation in correctly presenting problems and full details is necessary.

Pierce further stated that due to the rush of the filing period it will not be possible for the revenue officer to prepare business and similar returns which require numerous schedules to properly compute correct income. However, for those taxpayers who have completed such calculations and schedules the revenue officer will gladly answer technical questions or assist in computation of tax.

Local Welfare Fund Pays Out $117,056 Benefits

A total of $117,056 in benefits was paid out last year by the Construction Industry Insurance Fund of Western Maryland.

The report of operations for the fiscal year ending September 1, 1957, was issued by C. M. Sanner, chairman, and Carl O. Belt, employer trustees, and C. E. Bramble, secretary-treasurer, and George E. Clark, union trustees for the fund.

The trustees reported that incurred claims totaling $117,056 were higher than had been estimated by the insurance company, due primarily to excessive claims for dependent hospitalization.

Total claims, including reserves for claims incurred but unreported, amounted to 90 per cent of the $129,738 premiums paid.

Dependent incurred hospital losses, the report said, were at a dangerously high level and amounted to 135 per cent of the premiums paid for the protection, or 41 per cent of the premiums paid for all coverage.

Total dependent losses amounted to 119 per cent of premiums paid for dependent claims. Claims paid for employees, however, were below the normal pattern and amounted to 64 per cent of earned premiums paid for employee coverage.

The trustees urged the some 1,500 members of the fund to use benefits wisely and employers to forward contributions (7 1/2 cents an hour) promptly.

The fund paid claims totaling $52,661 for dependent hospitalization, $21,491 for dependent surgical benefits, $15,697 for employee hospitalization, $10,899 for employee accident and health insurance, $9,438 in employee life insurance, $4,000 for employee accidental death and dismemberment benefits and $2,870 for employee surgical claims.

Employer contributions totaling $235,192 were disbursed thus:

Premiums paid, $129,738, or 55 1/2 per cent; reserve, including investment fund, $96,631, or 41 1/2 per cent; expenses of operating the trust office in the Allegany Labor Temple, $7,165, or 3.1 per cent, and office equipment, $1,636, or 0.7 per cent.

The trustees pointed out that the last item largely represents permanent equipment, and that costs of this item will decrease from year to year.

The fund provides health and welfare protection for members of Local 568, Iron Workers Union; Local 37-B, Operating Engineers; Local 616, Laborers Union; Local 1024, Carpenters Union; Local 296, Plasterers Union, and Local 453, Teamsters Union.

To Get New Mouse House

ANN ARBOR, Mich. — (INS) — The University of Michigan is going to provide bed and board for 12,000 house mice.

The National Institute of Health of the U. S. Public Health Service has provided funds to revamp the university's Laboratory of Vertebrate Biology for use as a "mouse house."

The mice, representing 20 to 30 inbred pure genetic strains, will receive free cheese and lodging at the U. of M. Laboratory of Mouse Genetics when renovations are completed — probably next summer.

Professor Dugald E. S. Brown, project director and chairman of the school's Zoology Department, said the main function of the center, one of five to be set up throughout the nation will be to train graduate and undergraduate students in mouse genetics.

Secondly, he said, the center will serve as custodian of about 3,000 mice, including many important strains, as part of a national pool for research in basic biology and medicine.

Detroit Housewives Sweep Blues Away

DETROIT — (INS) — Housewives, when you're down in the dumps, just sweep those blues away!

Get to work! Do something, anything, but just get busy! That's what Detroit housewives advise.

One Detroit housewife, whose husband works irregular hours, said she gave up feeling sorry for herself a long time ago.

"I used to moan whenever he'd be working the late shift. I'd just get to feeling sorrier and sorrier for myself."

"Now I force myself to get up and do the ironing or the wash, things like that. It keeps me busy and chases the blues."

Names Already Coming In For State's New Tidewater Fisheries Speedboat

ANNAPOLIS — A speedy former Navy patrol boat probably won't be commissioned by the Tidewater Fisheries Commission for several weeks. But name suggestions already are coming in.

John P. Tawes, TFC chairman, said he'd like to name the 63-foot craft after Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin.

But John S. Carr, the governor's executive secretary, said no decision had been made on the name and any reference to the new craft as the McKeldin would be "extremely premature."

Tawes said yesterday the new member of the TFC's "mosquito fleet," employed in chasing down conservation law violators, was scheduled for christening Monday by the governor's 18-year-old daughter, Miss Clara McKeldin.

However, Carr said last night more work is needed to get the craft ready and commissioning probably won't take place for several weeks.

The craft will be the fastest in the enforcement fleet. It was obtained from the Navy's "Mothball fleet" at no cost to the State.

Tawes said. The chairman noted the boat was valued at $175,000-$200,000 and was obtained largely through the efforts of McKeldin.

The State paid about $325 to have the patrol craft moved from its storage berth at Norfolk, Va. Since its arrival here last October, the boat has been overhauled in a local boat yard.

The State is required by the government to maintain the boat in a condition satisfactory to the U. S.

Navy. The Navy may recall the boat in event of an emergency.

The TFC has three other boats under construction, which are scheduled for delivery to the enforcement fleet this summer. Both are 40-foot patrol craft which will cost an estimated $175,000 altogether.

The former Navy boat will be the largest member of the enforcement fleet except for the yacht "Potomac."

Only Three Passengers Carried On B&O Line

PHILADELPHIA — Raymond H. Holter, general passenger agent for the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, told the Pennsylvania Utility Commission yesterday the line carries an average of fewer than five passengers a day between three B&O stops in Pennsylvania.

Holter was the first witness at the PUC's hearing on the railroad's petition to abandon passenger service in Pennsylvania. The cessation of operations in Pennsylvania is part of the B&O's recently announced intention to drop all passenger service between Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York.

Holter testified the line operates seven trains daily in each direction between Baltimore and Philadelphia or New York.

He said all of them stop at Philadelphia, and three stop at Chester. "The trains carry an average of fewer than five passengers a day between those three points," Holter told Examiner Herman Lieberman.

Holter estimated that the B&O is losing nearly five million dollars a year on passenger service between Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York.

He said the number of passengers carried on the 14 trains making the Baltimore-New York run "averages 94 per train."

The hearings were continued but Lieberman did not set a date.

An average 6 to 8 per cent of personal income after taxes is put into savings.

Braves, Yanks Must Pay For Baseball Success

Champions' Rookie Stars Turn Down First Offers

By HOWARD SIGMUND

NEW YORK—(INS)—There's a penalty for success, even in baseball, and the World Champion Milwaukee Braves and the New York Yankees aren't ashamed to admit that all it means is money.

The monetary jingle begins with the proposition that when a rookie becomes a pro he wants more dough—so included among the holdout headaches of the two World Series adversaries are the cases of sophomores Bob Hazle and Tony Kubek.

"That's the price you pay for success," Braves' general manager John Quinn commented yesterday.

Hazle Wants More Money
Quinn was speaking about receiving Hazle's unsigned contract for 1958. The Hurricane, whose timely hitting helped Milwaukee win its first championship, would like a bigger increase than the $10,000 offered for his out-of-field services.

But the Hurricane would appear to be but a little wind in the face of the storm. Just like in any other normal, profit-making business, ball players believe that the victors are entitled to more money.

"You come to expect that after winning a title," Quinn declared after admitting that others have returned unsigned contracts to the new capital of the baseball world.

The hardest to please presumably are stars such as Lew Burdette, Warren Spahn and Hank Aaron.

Young Kubek let it be known that he wants more Yankee dollars.

The infielder-outfielder denied a report that he had agreed to terms and said the Yankee increase offer was not enough.

It is estimated that Kubek received $7,000 for his first year.

Asking For $12,000
Kubek, who was the 1957 Rookie of the Year and played five positions during the season while fashioning a .297 average, reportedly is asking for $12,000.

"His 'unimproved' contract calls for an estimated $10,000. The Yankees, who move into high finance when they bargain with fellows like Mickey Mantle (seeking $75,000), Gil McDougald ($35,000) and Whitey Ford, signed their sixth player yesterday.

Veteran right-fielder Hank Bauer was raised $2,000 to an estimated $30,000 although he batted only .236 in the 1957 season. That was he hit 18 homers and drove in 65 runs.

The first regular to sign was Yogi Berra and the catcher was Winfield early in the clash forced Geatz to pull his pivot star for safety and insert Charles "Stretch" Howell.

Injury 'Helps'
It was because of an injury to Winfield several weeks ago that Geatz could put in Howell with a feeling of certainty. "Stretch" had filled in at the bucket slot for Winfield in three games, gained experience under fire, and the attack never sputtered with him taking over. Both cagers appear of equal ability and with their six-foot plus stature, rebounds are one of their specialties.

Coach Payne, on the other hand, inherited a squad that was almost as green as grass when he took over the reigns at Campobello from Gene Shaw this year. Only Jack Cook had done much playing last season and that wasn't until late in the campaign.

Chet was faced with a job of shifting his starting lineup, picking out the opportune times for substitutions and hoping to get a combination that would click early in order to smooth out the Alco attack.

It took five games for the former Ridgely High court boss to mould a starting five. In that time the Campers were able to win only once, taking Frederick across, 63-56, while losing three.

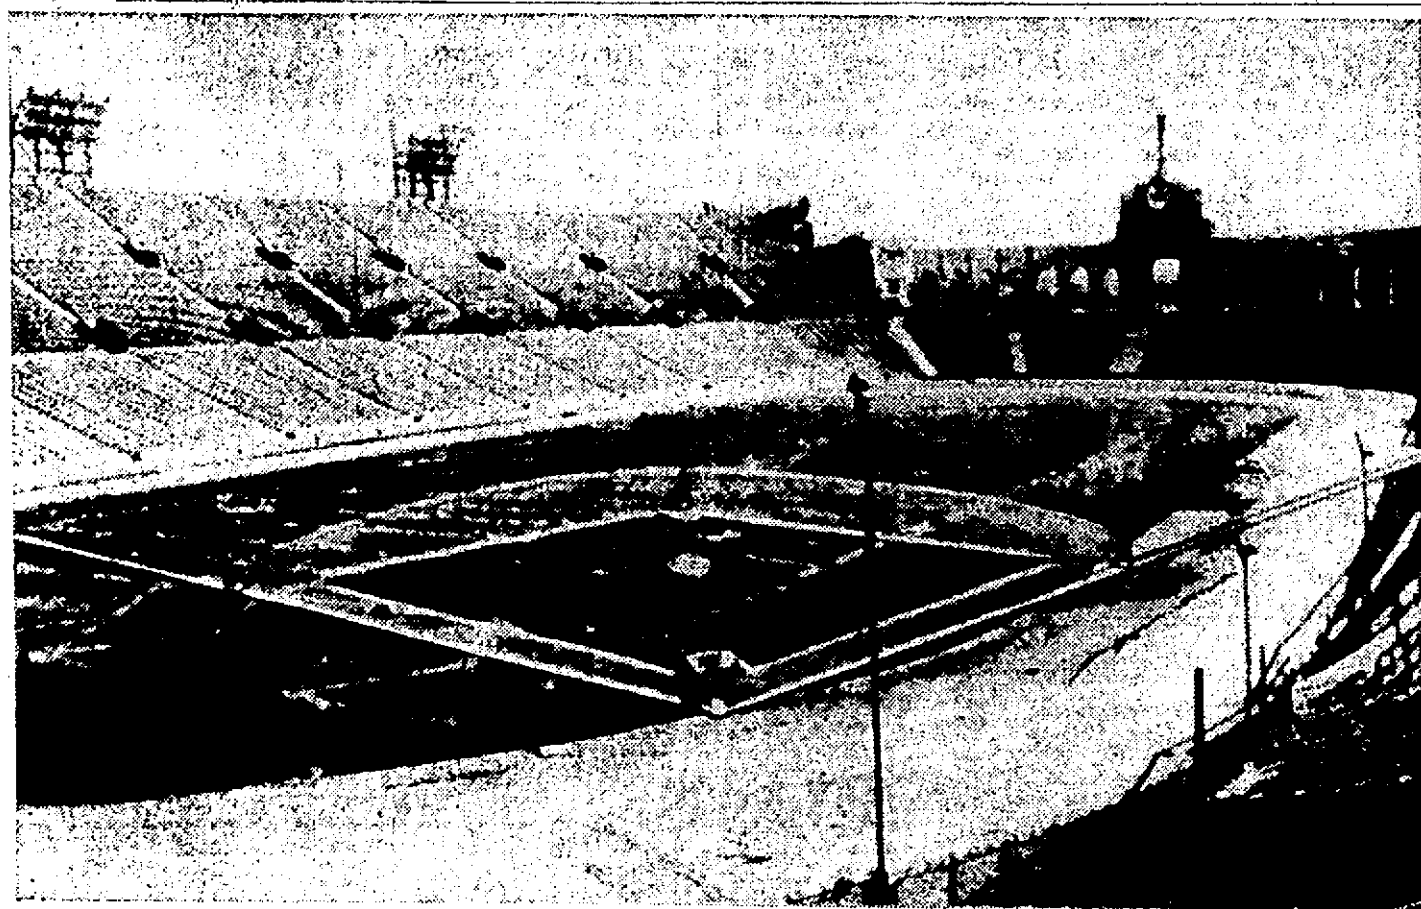

With the beginning of the WMIL race, Payne knew his players and their ability. He was able to stick to a starting lineup and had two players he could depend upon for reserve duty.

The quintet of forwards Gary Frisby and Glenn Davis, center Cook and guards Gary Shook and Denny Knippenberg jelled and four loop opponents were knocked over with comparative ease. Neil Phillips and Charles Norris became the sixth and seventh men and came through with commendable performances when called upon by Payne.

Against Fort Hill last Friday, the Campers ran up against a well-balanced club that was enjoying a good night from the field and one that worked with perfection. The same thing happened to the Hilltoppers Tuesday night in falling to LaSalle.

It's going to be interesting tomorrow night to see if Alco will

HOW DODGER DIAMOND WILL LOOK—This photo-diagram, made as engineers surveyed the floor of the Los Angeles Coliseum, shows how the Los Angeles Dodgers plan to fit a baseball diamond into the big bowl for use during the next two seasons. The left-field foul line of 250 feet has drawn howls from some National League pitchers who claim the layout is a set-up for the Dodgers' right-handed hitting power. The right-field foul line will measure 300 feet. A 40-foot fence will be erected in front of the left-field seats, while a six-foot fence will encompass center and right fields. (AP Photofax)

Young Lefties Hope To Stick With Athletics

2nd of a series on rookies

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK—A pair of young sunspots, 22-year-old George Brunet and 25-year-old Walter Craddock, appear to have the best chance among the dozen freshman pitchers to stick with the Kansas City Athletics.

Brunet's won and lost record at Little Rock last year (14-15) was not very impressive but his strikeout total and total number of innings pitched certainly were. The 6-1 fireballer led the Southern Assn. in strikeouts, fanning 213 in 235 innings.

If Brunet fails to make it, it will be due to control trouble. He issued 127 passes last year. The youngster showed flashes of brilliance at times, especially during one stretch between May 2 and June 5 when he won six straight, including four shut-outs. During that period he had a one-hitter and two two-hitters, a three hitter and two four-hitters.

Craddock, a former Syracuse University star, spent his fourth professional year with Buffalo last season and it was his best by far. The slim 6-footer from Pax, W. Va., turned in an 18-8 record and a 3.34 earned run average. He struck out 154 in 218 innings and walked only 78.

Manager Harry Craft of the Athletics thinks this might be the year for Glenn Cox, a tall, strapping 26-year-old right-hander, to make it. Purchased from the Dodger chain in 1956, Cox returns for a third trial, buoyed by a 12-5 and a 3.00 earned run record.

Others To Make Bids.
Others who hope to land a pitching berth on the Athletics include right-handers Ken Johnson, 24 (11-16 at Little Rock), Dave Newkirk, 24 (11-14 at Shreveport), Harry Taylor, 22 (4-7 at Little Rock), John Tsitouris, 21 (10-11 at Charleston, W. Va.), Ray Herbert, 22 (13-8 at Buffalo), Jerry Boxer, 20 (1-4 at Abilene) and Howard Reed, a 21-year-old free agent. Tsitouris and Herbert have seen previous major league action with Detroit.

The new left-handers include Carl Duser, 25 (7-9 at Little Rock and 1-4 at Buffalo) and Dave Hill, a 20-year-old bonus boy signed last fall.

Except for pitchers, the rookie crop is pretty slim. Mike Baxes, 27-year-old infielder from San Francisco, appears to be the best of the hopefuls. Playing at Buffalo last year, he compiled a .303 batting average that included 76 runs batted in.

The lone freshman outfielder is Dave Melton and he, too, has been up before. Now 29, Melton is regarded as a good hitter despite his .260 average at Buffalo.

Moyer Scores 40 As Mathias Wins
Center Don Moyer, leading scorer in the area, kept up his torrid pace last night by dumping in 40 points to pace Mathias to a 66-61 rout of Oldtown on the winners' court.

Moyer connected for 19 field goals and added two tallies in three tries from the free-throw line. Cecil Nethers was top scorer for Oldtown with 26 points while Ken Davis tossed in 21 counters.

The victory was only the fourth in 13 outings for Mathias.

Game Postponed
The Potomac Valley Conference basketball game between Moorefield and Wardsville, slated yesterday afternoon on the Moorefield court, was postponed because of the icy conditions of the roads in Hardy County, W. Va. The game will be played at Moorefield on Wednesday, Jan. 25, at 2:15 p. m.

Moose Vault Into Cage Lead With Victory Over Hermans

There's a new leader in the City Basketball League race following last night's 66-55 victory by Loyal Order of Moose over Old Germans on the Carver court.

By winning the Moose slips into the slot held by the Brewers most of the season with a record of seven wins and only one loss. The defeat was the second in nine tries for the Hermans and shoves them into the runner-up slot.

Two games are on tap tonight at Carver with third-place Old Exports facing Knights of Columbus at 7 o'clock while tallying Forty & Eight tangles with Chaney's Transportation at 8:30.

Old Exports are a game out of second with five wins and a pair of setbacks. The Casey's have bagged three of eight, winning their last start by 69-55 over Chaney's. Forty & Eight has lost eight without finding the winning combination. Chaney's are 2-6 for the season.

Moran Holds Lead
In last night's battle for first place, the circuit's leading scorer, Don Moran of the Brewers, a 115-92 decision and the end of increased his lead over Fritz Showers of the Moose by tallying 19 points to 13 for Showers. Moran fouled out with four-and-one-half minutes remaining.

The losers, with only seven players in uniform, were handicapped in the latter stages of the game when Hoppy Crabtree and Jimmy Eckard both fouled out in the third period. With only five men left, the Old Gees were forced to play the final 4 1/2 minutes with four players when Moran exited on personals. The Moose quit was leading 54-50 when Moran committed his fifth personal.

The Old Germans hopped off to a 5-1 first quarter lead and hung on for a 12-11 edge at the close of the stanza. They increased the margin to 30-17 with a nine-point spurt in the second quarter before George McGregor brought the Moose to a 32-21 intermission score with a pair of quick fielders.

McGregor, Donnie Madden and Showers combined to lead the Moose attack which gave the winners a 51-40 margin at the end of the third period.

Moose Move In Front
Don Lilya and Showers collaborated with a pair of three-point plays to put the Moose ahead for the first time at 45-40. Goals by McGregor and Showers and a pair of fouls by Madden closed out the third period spurt for the Moose.

Moran boosted his league-leading total of points to 206 last night while Showers now has 134 for the Moose.

McGregor was the top gun for the Moose with 20 points on six goals and 8-12 at the foul line.

In a preliminary game the Rockets defeated the Satellites, 37-29, in a battle of Women's Rec League All-Stars. High for the winners was Smith with 15 points while Thompson had 14 for the Satellites. The lineups:

Doctors Deny Injury To End Ted's Career

BOSTON—Ted Williams and two doctors have quashed reports that the 39-year-old Boston Red Sox slugger's baseball career is endangered by broken ankle bones.

Williams told Boston sports writers by phone from his Florida home yesterday that he sprained the ankle on a fishing trip in Labrador last fall. He flatly denied any bones were broken.

A report in the Boston Traveler had said his future baseball status was "in jeopardy" because of two small broken bones in his right ankle.

Expels To Be Ready
The 1937 American League batting king said the ankle still is a little sore, but he expects to be ready for the 1958 season.

Ted was backed up by Dr. George Bennett of Baltimore and Dr. Russell Sullivan of Boston, who viewed X-rays of the tender ankle.

"The X-rays are all right, and as for Ted's career being endangered, that's a lot of nonsense," said Dr. Sullivan, who treated Williams for a shoulder separation in 1954.

Bennett Says, 'No Break'
Dr. Bennett, Johns Hopkins Hospital staff member, said there was no break, but the X-rays did show "real small pieces of bone—not big enough to be really called chips."

He explained the tiny splinters probably have been in the ankle for years and won't bother Williams' play.

Williams said he taped the ankle after the sprain, but he suffered a little pain when he jogged or ran.

Aggies End Search For Coach, Pick Jim Myers

COLLEGE STATION, Tex.—(INS)—Jim Myers, who could not turn down "those persistent Aggie students," left for College Station today to assume his new role of Texas A & M football coach and school athletic director.

The 36-year-old former star guard at the University of Tennessee, vacated his coaching post at Iowa State yesterday to accept a four-year contract at a reported salary of $16,000 annually.

Thus ended a two-month search for an Aggie coach which had threatened to turn into a fiasco. Myers, who was Red Sanders' top assistant at UCLA for nine years, takes over from Paul (Bear) Bryant, who returns to coach his alma mater, Alabama.

Seen Using Single Wing
Since Myers never has known anything except the single wing, it is a good bet that he will introduce the offense to the Aggies this fall.

Under Bryant, Texas A & M adhered to the split-T formation. In taking the job, Myers reported from Ames, Ia., that he received a telegram more than 80 feet long signed by 4,000 Aggie students saying that "each of us wants you to join us here."

"A week ago, I didn't think I had a chance. . . Then a couple of days ago, I got this letter from the Aggie student body who asked me to take the job. They were so persistent, I couldn't turn them down."

It was disclosed by Iowa State officials that Myers had two Aggie students, Gary Rollins, sports editor of the school paper, and John Hagler, a cadet colonel, as visitors earlier this week.

The two headed a "Get Myers" drive and told Myers they would not take "no" for an answer.

Burned In Effigy
Though Aggie students were happy about the switch, it didn't make Myers a popular figure on the Iowa State campus. They burned him in effigy last night.

Sanders was the first man contacted by A & M back in late November. He turned down the job, however.

It is safe to assume that Sanders put Aggie officials on Myers' trail. Sanders had Myers at Vanderbilt for one year also.

A & M then contacted Michigan (Continued on Page 27)

Vets, Frosh Helping Play Dixie Circuit

By The Associated Press

One of the major factors in the topsy-turvy Southern Conference basketball race — behind league champion West Virginia, that is — has been the surprising performance of a number of veterans and newcomers.

Even West Virginia, the Nation's No. 1 team with 13 straight victories, has had its pleasant surprises. The Mountaineers have gotten their customary good performance from veterans Lloyd Sharrar and Bob Smith.

West Helps WVU

But West Virginia has gotten much improved play from a couple of other veterans — Don Vincent, whose average is up six points a game — and a scintillating job from sophomore Jerry West, leading the team with a 16.8 point average in his first season of varsity competition.

The Citadel's all-veteran team — five sophomores and a junior — has performed up to last year's standards for the most part and the team has gotten a lift from freshman Dick Jones, averaging five points a game.

Big gainers are junior Howard McDonald and sophomore Howard Bash, up five points each, and sophomore Ralph Kunze, averaging five points in his first year with the varsity.

Davidson has gotten its usual solid performance from veterans Semi Mintz and Dave Hollingsworth and has picked up 10.4 points per game from freshman Bill Shinn.

Virginia Tech's success is directly the result of three freshmen — Bob Aversman (19.6), Earl Gilbert (13.7) and Chris Smith (13.6).

Add To Average

Only freshman Terry Litchfield (4.2) has cracked Richmond's veteran squad, but Theryl Willis is up four points over last year and Phil Morris has added six.

William & Mary's improvement is the result of freshmen Jeff Cohen (12.9) and Bev Vaughn (11.3) and the surprising showing of junior Roy Lange, who's averaging 15.2 points this season compared with 3.9 last year.

The loss of three stars from last year, including high scorer Lee Marshall, has hurt Washington & Lee. Don Flora is his usual brilliant soul and Frank Hoss has upped his average almost six points a game, but the Generals haven't uncovered anybody to take up the slack except senior Dave Nichols, averaging 10.1 points a game after a season's layoff.

Sophomore Tom Conard has upped his average for Furman from 2.3 points per game last year to a hefty 17 this season.

Elk Garden Whips Franklin, 72-63

Dropping in 22 points during the last quarter, Elk Garden pulled out a 72-63 Potomac Valley Conference basketball victory over Franklin last night on the Stags' hardwoods. The winners had trailed, 53-50, going into the final stanza.

Jerold Milavec paced the Elks with 21 points before being waved to the sidelines on fouls early in the fourth period. Don Rexrode, caged 19 points for the Panthers.

The victory gives Elk Garden a 3-4 mark in the PVC while the Panthers sport a 3-3 log.

The Franklin JV's won the preliminary, 30-28, over the Elk Garden junior varsity.

Tech's Loss To Auburn Seen 'Helping' Jackets In SEC

By ED WILKS
The Associated Press

It might sound screwy, but maybe Georgia Tech has lost just in time to win in college basketball.

Could be the 80-72 upset by Auburn last night was just what Tech needed before taking on Kentucky and Tennessee, running 1-2 in the Southeastern Conference, this weekend.

The defeat didn't hurt the Yellow Jackets (10-6). It was a non-conference game. But it should have ploughed under any signs of complacency that may have cropped up after four consecutive victories.

There already had been some talk Tech might be ready to a giant upset. Vanderbilt Coach Bob Polk, beaten 81-60 by Tech last Saturday, was so impressed he figured Tech could beat Tennessee Saturday and then take Kentucky Monday.

That double kill would hoist Tech from third (4-2) to second in SEC play. Kentucky is the leader at 5-0 with Tennessee second at 3-1.

The upset came on a tight night that also saw St. Bonaventure defeat Niagara 69-66 and Duquesne whip Toledo 67-54.

Northern Stages Rally, Wins, 60-56

Staging a fourth-quarter comeback, Northern High of Accident reeled off its fourth win in a row and sixth in nine games by trimming Bruceton High, 60-56, last night at Accident.

The Huskies had trailed all throughout the clash until the late stages of the final period. They were on the short end of 13-11, 21-30 and 44-36 scores.

Dick Spear led the winners with 22 points, 12 of them coming on 19 attempts from the free-throw line. Ward Humberston shoved in 18 markers and Mickey finished with ten. Cup and Hileman had 15 points apiece for the losers.

The Northern JV's gave the host school a sweep by taking the preliminary, 46-41, over the Bruceton junior varsity.

CRESAPTOWN QUINT WHIPS FLINTSTONE

Getting the lead near intermission, Cresaptown Junior High posted its fourth win in five starts by defeating Flintstone Junior High, 34-20, yesterday at Cresaptown.

After trailing at the end of the first quarter, the winners spurred ahead at the half and remained in front. Jim McKenzie sparked the Cresaptown attack with 10 points while Ron Myers had seven for Flintstone.

Tomorrow, Cresaptown will meet last year's varsity team in an "Alumni game."

Lions' Wilson Seeks Matson In Pro Trade

DETROIT (AP) — George Wilson says he is waiting to hear from the Chicago Cardinals, Philadelphia Eagles and Green Bay Packers on possible player trades.

"I've talked with those three clubs lately," Wilson told a meeting of the Detroit Sports Broadcasters Assn. yesterday. "They all know we're interested in getting a good running back. Now it's up to them to make us a proposition."

Matson First Choice

Wilson's first choice, of course, is Ollie Matson of the Cardinals. But he says there is very little chance of getting Matson unless the Lions were willing to part with a player like quarterback Bobby Layne.

Wilson says he will not trade either of his top quarterbacks, Layne or Tobin Rote.

"I'll tell you this," said Wilson. "Straight from the shoulder. There aren't many guys I would trade — I don't like that word 'untouchable.' But right now we just can't afford to get rid of Layne or Rote. Other than that, I won't say."

Wanted To Trade Walker

"I'm in favor of trading a guy while he still has some value left," said the Detroit Lions' coach. "I wanted to trade Dock Walker, Clayton Box and Bob Herschmeyer a couple of years before they called it quits, but we didn't do it."

"Finally, all three of them retired on us — and we didn't get a thing for them. Frankly, I think it's good for a player too. Frequently a player who is about done can go for a couple more seasons with a change in scenery."

Falcons' Hall Moves Up In Scoring Race

BECKLEY (AP) — Fairmont State's Harry Hall has come on strong to challenge Denny Skiles of Beckley College for the individual scoring lead of the West Virginia Intercollegiate Athletic Conference.

Executive Secretary George Springer of the WVIAAC announced today that his latest statistical figures, including last Saturday's games, show less than a point difference in the two men's points-per-game average.

Skiles has scored 299 points in 11 games for a 27.2 mark, while the Falcons' ace has registered a 26.8 average on 402 points in 15 games.

James Galloway of Bluefield State led Springer's official conference records in shooting percentage with 78 goals in 131 attempts, a 59.5 mark. Ken Remley, West Virginia Wesleyan's lefty sophomore center, was averaging 16.7 rebounds per game to lead in that department, while West Liberty's Joe Blaha was pumping in free throw attempts at a sparkling 87.5 per cent pace.

Blaha had made good 56 of 64 foul shots, but Dick Cantley of West Virginia Tech was netting free throws at an 81.6 per cent clip, hitting 40 of 49 attempts.

Charlie Huggins of Alderson-Broaddus was third with 75 of 93 tries and 80.6 per cent.

Yaksich In Third

Rudy Yaksich of Bethany held the league's third-best scoring average, an even 24 points in seven games. Blaha and Galloway followed with identical 21.2 averages.

Gary Hess of Wesleyan was the runner-up in goal shooting with 55.9 per cent and Tech's Lon Sizemore was close behind at 55.1 per cent.

Dick Brown of Tech was second in rebound average with 15.7, just a shade better than Tex Williams of Beckley, who was averaging 15.6 grabs off of the boards. Hall was in contention with an even 15 rebounds per game.

Sugar, Basilio To Sign Today

CHICAGO (AP) — Champion Carmen Basilio and Sugar Ray Robinson are to sign formally today for their March 25 middleweight encore here.

The rematch, which will mark the fifth time the 37-year-old Robinson will be fighting for the 160-pound crown, is being heralded by the International Boxing Club as a million-dollar show.

The IBC looks for theater television proceeds to exceed $275,000, a gross gate of $500,000 based on 19,000 attendance, $100,000 for movie rights and $30,000 from radio receipts.

Aggies End

gan State's Duffy Daugherty, former Notre Dame coach Frank Leahy and Navy coach Eddie Erdelatz.

Myers had met with Aggie officials on Jan. 7, but after conferring, backed down and returned to Ames. He also had turned down an offer from the University of Arkansas on Dec. 3 and was given a five-year contract at Iowa State.

Menze Resigns

Meanwhile, at Iowa State, school president James Hilton refused to make any public comment. He already has received a resignation from athletic director Louis Menze. Menze will leave when a suitable replacement is found.

Myers will take assistants Doug Bradley and Russ Faulkner. He will retain Aggie assistants J. T. King and Willie Zapalac.

Myers' salary reportedly will reach $60,000 yearly. He is to be given a house and an automobile and will make regular radio and television appearances.

The new Aggie coach inherits a great football team that lost the Gator Bowl game to Tennessee, 3 to 0. The Aggies graduate 13 seniors including All-Americans John Crow and Charles Krueger. But 42 men will return, including standouts like fullback Dick Gay, guard Allen Goehring, tackle Ken Beck, right end John Tracey and guard Jim Langston.

The Aggies' football fortunes soared under Bryant's guidance. Bryant took over in 1954, and in 1955 his team won seven games. The following year, A & M won nine games and the Southwest Conference championship.

Myers brought new life into the Iowa State cyclones last season and he posted a 4-5-1 mark.

State, Bluefield In Action Tonight

West Virginia State and Bluefield State have the West Virginia basketball scene all to themselves tonight as most of the other 17 state collegiate quintets are battling books in midterm examinations instead of baskets.

The Yellow Jackets are slated to entertain Rio Grande, Ohio in a return match while Bluefield State plays at Knoxville, Tenn., the Cresaptown attack with 10 points while Ron Myers had seven for Flintstone.

Bluefield's mark is 9-5 after absorbing a 75-66 loss to Fayetteville, N.C. Teachers Wednesday at Bluefield. The Big Blues trailed most of the time. Leander Howell was high for the losers with 23 points.

In the only other Wednesday contest involving a state college team, Salem bowed to Frostburg, Md. Teachers, 109-80. Jim Cave set a new home court scoring record with 33 points for the victors while Ed Burkhammer's 23 were high for Salem which suffered its 12th defeat in 14 games.

Mims Slated For Rematch Against Boyd

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The stage was set today for a rematch between Holly Mims, veteran Washington scrapper, and Bobby Boyd, lanky puncher from Chicago, to decide which of these two mediocre middleweights is the better.

Mims and Boyd fought to a draw in the Auditorium Arena last night. Promoter Chris Dundee said later, "I'd love to rematch them."

Neither fighter was badly damaged in the 10-round scrap. Boyd hit the canvas in the middle of the eighth round after a solid right to the chin.

"Next to the punch that kayoed Pat Byers, this was the best one-shot I ever landed," said Mims, who has had 64 ring engagements in 10 years. "It was a perfect right hand; right on the button."

Boyd, who thought he won, admitted it was a solid blow, but said: "Man, that should prove I ain't got no glass chin. He knocked me down clean, but I wasn't hurt. Didn't you see me wink at my corner?"

Mims, who had not fought since April, said he was tense and needed a warmup.

Demaret Tops Tournery Field

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Three-time winner Jimmy Demaret headed a select field of 42 professionals into the first round of the $15,000 Thunderbird Invitational Golf Tournament today, marking his first appearance on the 1958 winter circuit.

Sir James, the Texan from Houston who heads a staff of pros at Kiamisha Lake, N. Y., has been ailing the late and missed the opening events this year.

But there was nothing ailing for the past two years when Jimmy won the top money in successive appearances here.

Last year he had to dispose of Mike Soucek and Ken Venturi in an 18-hole playoff, which he did with a 68 to their respective 75 and 76.

In 1953, when the Thunderbird was a 54-hole tournament, Jimmy let fly an eagle two on the 18th to beat out a birdie scored by his old pal from Texas, Ben Hogan.

The tournament site is the exclusive Thunderbird Country Club, par 36-55—71 and 6,680 yards.

'Slugfest' Seen In Fight Tonight

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The outcome won't affect the welterweight rankings, but a near capacity crowd figures to see an old-time slugfest tonight when hometown rivals Tony Dupas and Herbie Rodriguez meet in a 10-round.

Dupas is the 21-year-old brother of lightweight contender Ralph Dupas and a promising fighter in his own right. Fresh from a hitch in the Navy, Dupas shows 24 victories in 29 fights. He is a direct opposite of his brother, preferring to maul rather than move and owns a stout left hook.

Rodriguez, 20, has won 14 fights and lost only two. His record is on the spectacular side with 10 knockouts on the list. His right hand smashes over a somewhat faulty left.

NEW YORK (AP) — The International Boxing Club can forget all about George Barnes of Australia as far as the series to decide the welterweight boxing champion is concerned. The National Boxing Assn. already has.

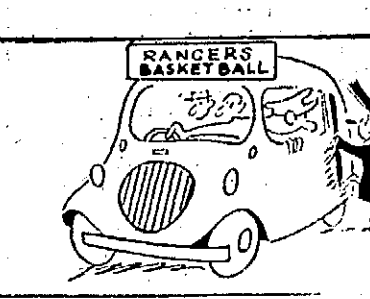

Barnes, one of the six originally selected by the World Boxing Committee to fight for the title vacated by middleweight champion Carmen Basilio, said today IBC officials can forget about an offer for him to meet Virgil Akins of St. Louis either March 7 or 14.

The Australian said in Sydney there wouldn't be enough money in it for him.

Cave Cracks Scoring Mark As Bobcats Thump Salem

With forward Jim Cave cracking the home court scoring record by shoving in 33 points, Frostburg State Teachers College easily raced to its 10th victory in 13 starts by walling Salem (W. Va.) College, 109-80, last night in Frostburg.

Cave, former Bruce High star, broke the mark of 32 held by former Bobcat Mike Nofsinger. Cave, Nofsinger and center Dave Marple of Frostburg were all teammates on the state class B championship teams from Bruce several seasons ago.

Cave, who has been runnerup to Marple as the Bobcats top point producer this season, got his record-breaking feat by hooping 13 fielders and hitting on seven of seven from the free-throw line.

Marple, who is the leading scorer in Maryland colleges, was not far behind Cave in tally-making, the springy-legged pivot star tossing in 29 points. Joe Carter tossed in 17 points and Bill McCall finished with 11 for the Bobcats who had a .463 average by hitting on 44 of 95 from the field.

Salem, although losing by 29 markers, also had a good shooting mark, the invaders registering a .423 as 30 of 71 tries found the range. The visitors also had 20 of 29 from the foul line while the Bobcats tossed in 21 of 32 attempts.

Burkhammer led the invaders with 23 points, including nine from the foul line. Salem, which had won its last two starts, including an 89-84 upset over Potomac State, was on the short seventh race.

"Emmy" Awards To Be Presented On April 15

By JACK O'BRIAN

NEW YORK — (INS) — Hal March has a new situation film series to be called "Hal Something," the "something" meaning a last name to be added in the Danny Thomas show style.

It'll be about a TV star, married to an ex-performer, will be written by Larry Gelbart, and adds Hal hopefully: "We hope to hit the sort of mood of the old Spencer Tracy-Katherine Hepburn movies. We'll start shooting in February."

NBC will TV the "Emmy" awards Tues., April 15.

Kraft Theatre was a dullie; Pat O'Brien, who gives better than any script gives him, could do nothing but tread clichés.

Fay Wray on the Kraft opus looked better and younger than she did in "King Kong" a few generations of celluloid ago.

In all the Kraft Theatre good, Dick Van Patten was very good.

Amateur hour management (Ted Mack & Four Partners) is irked because they say the sponsor wanted the amateurs instead of "End Of The Rainbow," which is the worst show in TV's history, or darned near.

Judy Holliday is Perry Como's Feb. 1 guest.

"Bridge Of San Luis Rey" not only was fine, but it built a fine trend: 27.6.

CBS will make another Western series out of "Stagecoach."

Lowell Thomas' "High Adventure" last night, which stacked up in advance as his best, wasn't.

Jeannie Carson, more talented than her recent TV shows have demonstrated, will be guest starred in the Feb. 5 "Wagon Train."

That one also will be directed by Mark Stevens.

Any kid who learned the "Who Has Seen The Wind" poem in school should be interested in the Feb. 12 Bell Telephone series, which is the first TV show in the mediums history to admit "wind" officially and seriously is its one main ingredient.

Frances Farmer will be honored for her comeback on next Wednesday's "This Is Your Life." Not giving away a secret: Ralph Edwards says it's the first time he's told the public in advance.

Quality Lessens Engineer Demand

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (INS) — University of Arkansas officials say the average engineering graduate is no longer being hard sought by industry and so must hit the job hunting trail after graduation.

Louis Trager, head of the university's job placement department, said:

"The jobs are no longer coming to the students. Now they are going to have to get the jobs themselves."

Trager said new and higher standards are being set by industry for new engineering employees and that quality, and not quantity, is the key to the new trend.

Sentence Reduced On Mutiny Charge

HUNTINGTON — The Marine Corps has reduced the prison sentence of a Huntington youth convicted of mutiny by a court-martial at Camp Lejeune, N.C., last year.

Edward H. Greene, a Huntington attorney who voluntarily served as a member of defense counsel for PFC Frederick D. Golden, 19, said he was notified yesterday that Golden's sentence had been reduced from three to two years at hard labor.

Grave Digger Pens Letter To Hitchcock

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK — There follows an open letter to Alfred Hitchcock, who has been running an advertisement in New York newspapers for a grave digger:

"Dear Mr. Hitchcock:

"I write in answer to your advertisement for a grave digger, who must, you say, be 'close-mouthed, experienced in all soils, adept at concealment, should be six feet deep, 60 minute man — but gentle!'

"Young and Rubicam, the advertising agency handling your search, reports that the response has been overwhelming. Hundreds of cards and letters, a protest from the grave diggers' union that the job should be done by a union man, a spade sent in the mail, etc., etc.

"This is quite astonishing in light of the fact that few knew the nature of the assignment. I was aware of the type of job only because of your invitation, sent to numerous television writers, to spend a weekend at Miami Beach with you, your wife and the sponsor of your excellent CBS-TV weekly program.

"It moved me deeply when you remarked on 'the dreary prospect of spending a weekend with a sponsor' and issued your invitation to 'a cultural retreat' of writers in 'the old world charm of Miami Beach.' Only the objection of my employer, who protests any except himself defraying my expenses to a cultural retreat anywhere, prevented me from flying to your side.

"Well, Mr. Hitchcock, to come to the point, I am your man.

"Close-mouthed? Ah, the off-the-record secrets that burden my soul. Who but I, for instance, knows that a certain actress drinks caramel-colored water which she pretends is Scotch?

"Experienced in all soils? The answer is self-evident if you read my column. Name a type of soil that my little shovel hasn't turned over.

"Adept at concealment? My boss constantly complains that I can't be found when I'm needed.

"Should be six feet deep? I am six feet tall and just able to see over the pile of press releases that decorate my desk.

"A 60-minute man? This is the ideal working day which I constantly strive to achieve.

"Gentle? I truly am, but as I pointed out above, I'm adept at concealment.

"Have spade, Mr. Hitchcock, Will Travel.

"Gravely Yours,
"Charles Mercer"

College Prof Dockets Suit

CHARLESTON — A Concord College assistant professor asked Kanawha County Circuit Court today for an injunction to prevent college authorities from firing him.

Russell W. Castle, assistant professor in the Athens college's social science department, asked the circuit court earlier this month to issue an injunction halting what he contended to be excessive eating charges in the school cafeteria.

His petition today said that since he brought the initial court action, he has been notified that he is not being recommended for employment during the next school year.

Judge Frank L. Taylor had ruled that Castle's earlier request was out of his jurisdiction.

Defendants named in Castle's suit are Prof. Fred S. Rogers, head of the social science department; President Virgil H. Stewart, and the State Board of Education.

Castle said he asked Stewart to make adjustments in his food bill after the Concord eating facilities were switched from family style to the cafeteria type. He said he informed Stewart earlier that he planned to appeal to the Board of Education.

The suit today was marked re-

Penny Defers Action On Dividend Plan

PHILADELPHIA — (INS) — The board of directors of the Pennsylvania Railroad decided at its meeting in Philadelphia yesterday to defer dividend action until "a better appraisal of 1958 operations can be made."

J. M. Symes, PRR president, explained the company operated at a deficit in November and December, is currently running at a loss "and probably will be in the red in February as this month is usually a poor one even at normal levels of business."

Gardner, Mass. (pop. 20,206) is the largest chair and baby carriage manufacturing center in the world.

Russians Show Anti-West Ballet, "The Red Poppy"

By ROY ESSOYAN

MOSCOW (AP)—It may be a reflection of the times, but the Russians have revived a violently anti-American ballet, "The Red Poppy."

It stars Russia's aging prima ballerina, 47-year-old Galina Ulanova, in the role of Tao Hoa, a young and beautiful Chinese dancer and friend of the suffering Chinese masses.

The masses, from a Communist point of view, are suffering because the setting is China in the '20s, long before the country's so-called liberation by the Communists.

Despite her age, Ulanova is still as light and graceful as a feather—when she's dancing. But except for a few brief and breath-taking sequences, Ulanova has little time for dancing in "The Red Poppy."

She's too busy registering loathing and adoration in doses more appropriate to a burlesque stage than the ballet.

The loathing is directed against the villains of the piece, an American with the interesting name of "Mr. Boss" who is described in the synopsis as one of the foreign "masters" of China, and his obsequious reactionary Chinese henchman, Li Shan-tu.

The adoration is heaped at Ma Li-chen, a wharf coolie turned labor leader and revolutionary, and a Soviet sea captain, the holds of whose ship are bulging with grain from the emancipated workers of Russia for the downtrodden coolies of China.

The "ballet" has been in storage since the Geneva summit conference of 1955, which is not surprising. It's not in the "Geneva spirit." Its spirit, if anything, belongs more to the Sputnik or rocket age.

The "ballet" opens with a dock scene, showing burdened coolies unloading heavy crates marked "cigarettes" under the lash of brutal overseers.

One coolie, exhausted and starving according to the synopsis, stumbles and falls. His crate bursts open revealing not cartons of cigarettes—but American rifles.

The workers immediately declare a protest strike. At this point a Soviet merchant ship, complete with red banner proclaiming Soviet-Chinese friendship, pulls into the harbor.

The ship provides a startling backdrop to several ballet scenes, but then the ballet scenes themselves are somewhat startling.

Gloating maliciously, Li, the reactionary Chinese henchman, informs the Russian sea captain his grain cannot be unloaded because the coolies are on strike. The sea captain brushes Li aside, orders his own crew to unload the ship—and Soviet-Chinese friendship is born.

As a token of this friendship, the sea captain gives Tao Hoa, the beautiful dancer, a huge red poppy.

From a propaganda point of view the poppy, symbol of China's opium scourge, was an unhappy choice as a token of Soviet aid to China.

The producers of the current revival have apparently realized this because the ballet is now called simply, "The Red Flower." All reference to poppies has been deleted.

There are many more high-jinks before the curtain comes down on the three-act, 13-scene ballet—dream sequences of the bright Communist future ahead, sketches of the "Charleston" from a bawdy foreign nightclub, a poisoning attempt, riot scenes, scenes of the "foreign masters" fleeing and, finally, the revolution.

The last scene brings all hands on deck and all the coolies onto the dock, fists uplifted in victory. The backdrop of the giant stage at the Bolshoi Theater is filled with a giant red flag, probably the biggest, reddest flag displayed on any stage, any time.

There are 26 Federal dams built between Minneapolis and St. Louis for flood control.

Mary Haworth Mail...

Editor's Note: Mature-age business women asks aid in making up mind over relatives.

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I am a lone, mature-age woman, in a large family. The others are married, with children and grandchildren. I am sure that many of your women readers are in this category and need guidance as I do.

So much seems expected of us, of time and material aid, if anyone in the family needs help. Unfortunately (that's the only word for it), I feel a great deal of family responsibility. Why, I don't know. I have a nice position and am not dependent upon anyone, thank God.

Just where should we draw the line and refuse instead of acceding? . . . I anticipate another demand in the near future, when I may be asked to lend money to a nephew whom I helped once before. My brother says (angrily) that the boy's parents, not I, should have met that need.

Feels Guilty, Being Selfish

I am saving for an extended trip to Europe, the dream of a life time, and will be sinking much of my hard earned money into what may be my "last fling," as I am getting on in years. I will be termed selfish, I expect, should I turn down the request if it comes—and probably I will feel guilty about it. But sooner or later I must set a precedent in self-defense. How do I get off the merry-go-round? I am a religious person and many times have turned the other cheek to keep peace and somehow I can't reconcile my kind consideration with their unconcern about me. I am known to have a good sense of humor—and thank God for it. To get slightly humorous, perhaps the solution of my problem is to find "a man of my own."—D. E.

Living Is Giving For A Real Woman

DEAR D. E.: In your letter, here condensed, you mention that your tastes and mode of living, as a lone business woman, are as foreign to them (meaning your married next of kin) as their lives are different from yours.

Also you say that you feel like an outcast at times, when they are discussing children and grandchildren; and that you are dismayed by a wistful sense of their neglect of you, and ingratitude, especially during the holidays.

Against this background, you wonder why you continue to "feel a great deal of family responsibility," or, in other words, an almost irresistible urge to respond to family requests for help, whether or not such help is merited.

Well, I imagine the answer is, you are endowed with a normal woman's need to be needed. For a truly womanly woman, living is giving. Further, if you are a religious person (as you say) living a good life—hence in a state of grace, to use the theological phrase, it follows that you are infused with charity. For faith, hope and charity are fruits of grace or godliness.

And charity, as we know, is Christian love—or loving all men as brothers because they are sons of God. It is an act or feeling of affection or benevolence. It is good will to the poor and suffering. It is leniency in judging men and their actions. It is pure kindness, impartially distributed. That's why you've gone on giving, in the teeth of ingratitude and exploitation, and why you've turned the other cheek, to keep peace.

Always Be Good To Yourself, Too

Thus in giving without getting, you've been exercising your better nature, keeping it in health, acting wholesomely—thereby fulfilling (insofar as events permit) the higher purposes for which you were born.

The functions of woman are to create and to nurture. And it might indeed be a partial solution (at least) of your present distress, if you were to marry and invest in a sustaining partnership, where loving and giving are reciprocal, and solicitude a mutual exchange. And don't apologize "humorously" for thinking that thought.

As for where to draw the line in giving—"Justice is the perfection of charity," a theologian once told me. Undisciplined charity that drains the self is not true charity. Rather it is vague, uncertain sentimentality that benefits nobody. So, be fair to yourself. As the saying goes, "Be good to yourself," and give from a sense of abundance, not with a feeling of being robbed.

Remember "The Lord loveth a cheerful giver." The accent is on the word "cheerful."—M. H.

Mary Haworth counseled through her column, not by mail or personal interview. Write her in care of The Evening Times.

Cooperative To Give Up Chesapeake Oyster Beds

ANNAPOLIS 20 — Directors of the Smith Island Oyster Cooperative have informed the Tidewater Fisheries Commission that the corporation plans to dissolve and surrender to the State its 1,900 acres of oyster grounds in Chesapeake Bay.

John P. Tawes, TFC chairman, said the directors told him that the cooperative members voted 33-7 in favor of the action at a recent meeting.

The cooperative, formed in 1950, was the first and only project of its kind in Maryland. It was a combined effort by small watermen to lease and farm oyster grounds, but apparently it was not a financial success.

State leasing of barren oyster grounds has been legal since 1906, but it has been confined to individuals, except for the Smith Island group. Depleted areas of the bay and its tributaries are available at a rent of $1 an acre per year. The leaseholders plant seed oysters and shells and reap the bivalve harvest three years or so later.

The acreage leased to cooperative members is in Tangier Sound and Kages Straits to the west, north and east of Smith Island.

The TFC, which plants millions of bushels of shells and seed oysters yearly, has never extended its propagation program to the Smith Island vicinity.

Tawes said the TFC shell planters have stayed away from the area to avoid spending public funds on private land and "for enforcement reasons."

Leaseholders are allowed to use power dredges on their own land but must stick to tongs when working public rocks. The leased areas are hard to mark on open water, and enforcement of the dredging restrictions is difficult.

Tawes said the TFC will consider extending its planting program to the Smith Island area when and if the cooperative's leased holdings revert to the State. The TFC chairman said most of the leases held by the 40 members of the cooperative expire Jan. 10 and were not renewed. The remaining leases will expire at later dates.

The Court of Appeals revived the Smith Island cooperative plan in 1950 when it reversed a circuit court and ruled that a test plot of ground was barren, not a natural oyster bar. Natural bars—those which produce oyster without seed-planting by man—may not be leased to private interests.

Many oystermen are opposed to leasing. They contend oyster bars are public property and should not be rented to individuals.

They say it will lead to control of the oyster industry by a few individuals.

Those in favor of leasing contend it is the only method of expanding Maryland's dwindling oyster output without spending millions of tax dollars.

A one-year moratorium on all leasing was enacted by the 1952 General Assembly, and after that a local law banned any further leasing in Somerset County waters. Many of the cooperative leaseholdings are in Somerset waters, but the cooperative was in operation before the Somerset ban was enacted.

Blacksmith At Work In Aircraft Plant

FORT WORTH, Tex. — (INS) — Fifty-two-year-old Alton R. Clift of Fort Worth has been a blacksmith nearly all his life.

He used to shoe horses and repair farm implements at Peoria, Tex., but now he uses his forge, hammer and battered iron anvil to help make supersonic bombers.

Clift is the only blacksmith among 21,000 employees at Convair's Fort Worth plant, where it was found a blacksmith is sometimes better than a machine even in the missile age.

The husky blacksmith said his job at Convair is "mostly bending things—such as tubular parts of aircraft assembly jigs."
